Chapter: The Inhabitants (pages 161-203)

The Home and Origins of our Ancestors.

Generally our ancestors are called the "Walloons". This expression refers to the Calvinists, or Reformed from the French-speaking provinces which belonged to the former Spanish or Austrian Netherlands -- French-Flanders, Artois, Hennegau and southern Brabant -- who had to leave their homes and farms because of their reformed religious beliefs. Some cities and towns can be pinpointed with a certain degree of accuracy as being the original hometowns of our ancestors, even though the churchbooks which are used as the most important source of family research have proved to be unreliable at times. Areas and places of origin named therein often will tell at least the vicinity of the homeland. For others, especially those who have emigrated long ago or who have died out, the birthplace may be found in unrelated documents in a different territory.

Our ancestors mostly originate from the area called "l'alloeuwe", the Earldom of Brabant near Brussels, Löwen, Liége, and Namur, along the southern bank of the river Leye near the border of Artois in the former Kingdom of Belgium; also from the areas of Tournai, Lille and Armentières in France. These territories were known to have been very hard on the newly reformed people. Therefore, these areas became the main centers of emigration of the Huguenots from Belgium and northern France.

According to historical notes, we cannot assume that they came from the city of Löwen itself, even though the French surnames of Calmez, Barié, Borel, Gorenflo, and Lacroix, and possibly all other French names mentioned herein, have been spotted on business signs by Friedrichstal soldiers passing through or staying in Belgium in 1914 and 1940. The name Louvain/Löwen is not found even once in any personal papers or documents as being the birthplace of any of our ancestors.

Borel and Lacroix are common French surnames which are found everywhere in France. Lacroix is supposed to have been aristocratic. (Paquier de la Croix). Likewise de la haye, de la varanne, de Paret and de Lattre.

The name Borelli (changed to Italian), related to Borel, is found very frequently in the French and Italian Alpine regions. In the region of the Waldenser Pérouse In Württemberg, the name Borel is common. A Pierre Borel 'de Dauphine' settled in Welschneureut (several km from Friedrichstal) shortly after 1700. (Ed. note: Waldenses: a Christian sect which arose after 1170 in southern France under the leadership of Pierre Waldo, a merchant of Lyons, and in the 16th century joined the Reformation movement.)

The name of Gorenflo, the most mentioned name in our community, is more Flanders-Flemish in character--perhaps even Netherlandic in both sound and character. In the area of Antwerp, the name Gorenflos, with an 's' at the end, is very common. However, strangely enough, in the little town of Gorenflos (located between Abbeville and Amiens, Department of Somme) there is no one with the surname of Gorenflo.

Dr. Walter Gorenflo, homeopathic doctor and dentist, whose father Hermann Gorenflo came from Friedrichstal, has legally changed his name to Gorenflos.

In Winden near Bergzabern (from which some of our colonists came), the name can still be found today; however it is spelled Goranflot. Perhaps that is the original spelling of the name; yet, on the other hand, it is quite possible that this new way was just the outcome of misspelling by officials (the name really being Gorenflo). Especially in the Rhine-Palatinate, there are many Huguenot names which differ greatly from the original French spelling. Perhaps it was decided, as this was a German area, to change the melodious French names to German sounding ones. The judicial official Jacques Gorenflo has always spelled his name in the way which is fashionable today.

The very first settlers were Walloons (Huguenots) and they declared this to the Margrave in November, 1699. This is verified in the opening passage of the so-called Letter of Freedom, which states "Pertaining to the religion of some of the reformed Walloons".

Later immigrants (mostly foreign-named persons from the Palatinate) seem mostly to have come from Belgium. In the colonies in the Palatinate, French-Italian Waldensers were thickly congregated, indeed a large portion of the colonists came from all parts of France.

The Piemontesers in the judicial district of Germersheim were especially numerous. Therefore, in the year 1663 the Waldenser settlers in Mörlheim near Landau (which is also where some of your ancestors came from) received some privileges under the official title "Concession granted to new arrivals from the valleys of Lucerne and Piemont". It is obvious that the Netherlanders and Walloons, as well as the Piemontese Waldensers settled there at the same time. We can conclude that since 1663 there settled in this region all at the same time the Netherlanders, Walloons, Frenchmen and Waldensers, and they established a group which had a common bond not only in their beliefs but in their fate as well.

The name "Walloon" by no means indicates a religious party, but rather a populace whose majority always declared themselves for the Catholic religion and still nowadays do so. The language of this group was a dialect, in French, containing many unusual expressions which can be traced to the old Gallic language. In its basic form, the language is truly Romanic, but has picked up parts of the Netherland language and the Lower German over the centuries. The name of the group seems to come from its Dutch and German neighbors who called the Walloons (in the Friedrichstal documents 'Wallons') "Walen". "Wale" is an old German word which means foreigners

One should keep in mind that during the first three decades of the settlement of Friedrichstal (in 1700) there was a steady flow of people to and from various new settlements. Special relationships caused a great deal of this movement. one thing is certain; the Friedrichstalers are definitely of Walloon origins. In subsequent years following the founding of the settlement, new colonists whose homeland was not the area of "l'alloeuwe" have integrated with those who came from the Palatinate. Many did not come immediately from their original homeland, but came from other colonies which they left for some reason or another. Our colony in its first generation between 1700 and 1730 was a colorful mixture of Huguenots as well as French, Walloons, and Waldense Protestants--called Reformeds or Réfugiés-because they were forced to leave their home villages and cities for the sake of religion and they had made their homes in Flanders, on the banks of the Marne, Somme and Rhône, in the Argonnes and the Ardennes Brabant, in the German and French-speaking sections of Switzerland, in southern France, especially in the river region of the Garonne, at the shores of the Mediterranean Sea, as well as in the higher regions of the French and Italian Alps of Piemont and Savoy. This is why our village is not a true Walloon settlement, even though the very first and actual founders of Friedrichstal, perhaps having immigrated as a tribal group, originated from the above-mentioned area of l'alloeuwe in Belgium. The Walloons themselves came from the areas of Piemont and Savoy prior to going to Belgium. (Therefore the name "Wale"-meaning foreigner or someone from a different country.) The trail of the Huguenot refugees also leads in a great part through Switzerland and the Netherlands, and was especially strong through the Palatinate (Rhein). The Palatinate was, so to speak, the corridor to Germany for the exiled, and since the days of the Paris bloodshed, Metz had become a Huguenot refugee camp on a large scale. on the other hand, it has been recorded historically that the Huguenots of France lived mainly In the southern parts of that country, so that is why the majority of refugees who were of true French heritage came from there.

The name "Waldenser" was derived from Peter VALDEZ/WALDUS, a rich citizen and merchant from Lyon, who shortly after 1170 tried to reestablish the church to her apostolic purity and poverty. The Waldense people were mostly inhabitants of the Alpine valleys of Piemont and Savoy. It is also quite conceivable that their name is a derivative of the Latin word "Vallis densa" meaning a valley filled with trees.

And now some things about the origins o our ancestors.

Jean Baptiste DESMARETS (DEMAREZ) from the Karlsbach Court married in the year 1713 Marie TERRASS who was born in "Aisteres in Loeuve". The original birthplace of this TERRASS family is therefore, we can assume, Eterres which is located now in northern France. The male lineage of this family died out on 22nd January 1891 with the death of Peter TERRASS. Unfortunately, the original home of the DESMARETS remains unknown to us. The godparents of his wife were Isaak DEREUX and Marie Madeleine JOLI from Barbeiroth in the Palatinate. Her parents were from the area of Thiérache (the upper part of the river Oise). The ancestor of the DEMAREZ family, who now live in Eggenstein, was Jean Baptiste DESMARETS (ca. 1656-1716), who married first Françoise DEFIVE, and then Marie TERASSE. His son Jean Baptiste DESMARETS, Jr. married Susanne GORENFLO, daughter of the first Friedrichstal alderman Jacques GORENFLO, and lived as a farmer on the Carlsbacher farm. Like so many of the other colonists, he died at the young age of 34 years. His widow then married the schoolmaster, Abraham DUPUIS. The family DEMAREZ might originally have been aristocrats (de MARAIS).

Philipp BOUDEMONT and his wife Madeleine came from Rohrbach in the Palatinate. Françoise DEVINE came from Schifferstadt. Jean CORNILLE from Merlem (Mörlheim) near Landau; while Nicolas CORNILLE "Vallon Réfugié", which means Walloonian refugee, from the cloister Heimbach (Pfaiz) found his way to Friedrichstal. Rachel BEAUVIER and Rachel SEZANNES are "de vint" which means from Winden near Bergzabern. Rachel SEZANNES was born there in 1691. A Jacques DEMARET (DEMAREZ) and his wife came to Friedrichstal from Offenbach near Landau.

The colonist François BOUQUET and his wife Johanna BOURDELINE moved here from Minfelden (Minfeld) in the Pfalz.

Marie BARIE, nee DEVINE, came from the Palatinate and was born in 1690. David DE LATE was born in "Pays de la- Leuve" (the area around Liége, Löwen, Antwerp, Namur).

Marie Barbara PARERE (BARERE or BARIE), the wife of Jakob MANZ, first saw the light of the world in Welschneureut in February 1733.

Among the list of those persons who were definitely in the Markgrave territory of Baden-Durlach on 9 October 1699, there appears the name of Jean BARET (BARIE) documented with the notation that he was a "Natif de Dophiné", which means that he was born in the former province of Dauphiné in the area of the West Alps of France. But it is very likely that his origins, or rather those of his father or grandfather, were in the little town of Nérac in the south of France.

Jean BONNET, farmer, 69 years old, also came from Dauphiné. Cathérine CURNEUX, nee VERNIER, was born in Blammont, county of Montbéliard.

Jean Jacques MAITRE (teacher/master), a catholic inhabitant, called Mezeret (Belfort) his home. His namesake, or even his brother, Jean Jacques MAITRE, also of the catholic religion, was his majesty's castlebuilder in Graben in the year 1730. (This information contained in the church records in Graben.)

Pierre CALMET (CALMEZ) Maitre Talieur, master tailor by trade, was born in Layrac "en la base guiene" (Guyenne), which is today the Department Lot-et-Garonne, France. Layrac, a small town, is situated on the left bank of the middle arm of the Garonne. Pierre CALMEZ left France in 1689, lived in Switzerland for a while, and on 15 June 1699 with his wife and a son arrived in the Markgrave territory of Baden-Durlach and settled in the colony of Weischneureut. Isaac CALMEZ became a citizen of Friedrichstal in 1733, and also moved here from Welschneureut, as did Jean THIBAUT, son of a colonist of that Waldense colony. He also was sworn in as a citizen in the same year. Jean Pierre THIBAUT also arrived in Friedrichstal in the movement of the Waldense refugees via Welschneureut. It seems possible that the homeland of family can be traced to Piemont or Savoy. In the oldest church records in Friedrichstal, he (CALMET) is identified as a French refugee. The ancestor of the CALMEZ family added to his signature as a special documentation the old Waldense seal, the letters of which "J.C." mean Jesus Christ. Pierre PAGET, hosierymaker, who died 5 Sep 1748, was married to Anne CALMET, who died 5 Nov 1766. Anne CALMET was born ca. 1701 in Welschneureut.

In the year 1698 nearly 300 Waldense families moved from Switzerland into the Hessian-Darmstadt area, led by Captain David von CALMETZ.

According to historians, the Waldense people immigrated in the 12th century from the French province of Dauphiné and were welcomed here with open arms, since they cleared the land and tilled the soil. That is why is the religious refugees from all parts of southern France--all the way down to the Pyrennes--had found asylum in the high-lying, hard-to-attack alpine valleys of Piemont and Savoy.

André CURNEUX, the second alderman of Friedrichstal, was from Halle near the Saale, where a large French-reformed parish existed; he then settled here. He was born in the small town of Doulincourt, near Chaumont, in the present Department of the Haute-Marne. Pierre DE LA HAL, a colonist who died here the 17 Apr 1734, also came from that same small town. CURNEUX settled in our village about a decade after its establishment. In 1700 he lived in Welschneureut and was active as a church elder. In 1703 he was mentioned as an elder of the church of the reformed Huguenot parish of Pforzheim. From 1710-1718 this same colonist acted as alderman of our village. He was a Frenchman of high education.

The BONNET family who formerly -resided here came originally from the Dauphiné area; however there is no information available about their home town. Likewise, the ancestors of the BOREL family also came from the Dauphiné region. It is very likely that they found a temporary home in the very hospitable Canton of Bern. One branch of the BOREL family died out several years ago in Mühlhofen near Billigheim. -

Jean LAMBERT, who built his home at 36 Mainstreet in 1728, carved into the wood support above the doorway: "Jean LAMBERT, Frenchman 1728". He probably wanted to point out that he was not a Walloon. This he did out of fierce national pride. The colonist JACOT immigrated from Le Locle in Switzerland, as did MOTTET (sometimes written as MODE) who was referred to as "the Swiss". Frédéric AU BIEL was listed as a native of the area of Grifons and was working in Graben at age 16 years and a communicant of the church in Friedrichstal. Pierre ROUX, who died childless in the year 1881, came from the Waldense community of Pinache in Württemberg. Jacques DALLMONT (TALMON) from Palmbach was working temporarily as a laborer In Blankenloch. Jean Jacques GROSJEAN, a smith, also seems to be of Waldense descent. On the list of inhabitants in the year 1709 we find a Michel SEZANE (CEZANNE) of French-Waldense origin, whose family blossomed here. The original home of the CEZANNE family was Fenestrelles in Piemont (see the family history notes in "Henri ARNAUD House" in Schönenberg, Württemberg).

The name of GORENFLO can be found in Rinklingen near Bretten. There you can find inscribed on the wooden beam over the doorway to house number 70: "Pierre GORANFLO Anno 1732". The people who now live there know for a fact that Pierre GORANFLO (GORENFLO) was a Huguenot from Friedrichstal. This information has been passed down by word of mouth.

According to research by Wolfgang Heinrich COLLUM of Eggenstein, the ancestor of the BARIE families of Friedrichstal is Jean Jacques BARIE (ca. 1668-1713), who first married Madelaine GUENAU, and secondly married Jeanne BOUQUET, the widow of Jean FURET, whom he married on 13 May 1706 in Welschneureut. His son, Jean Jacques BARIE Jr. (1693-1753), tobacco farmer, councilor in Friedrichstal, married Marie DEVIN, daughter of the Münchof-constituent Antoine DEVINE., on 30 Mar 1717 in Klein-Schifferstadt in the Palatinate. The BARIE family came from the southern France town of Nérac in the area of Guyenne and Gascogne (Department Lot-et Garonne). In nearby Welschneureut at this time, there were two religious refugees of the same name--BARERE (BARIE). Isaac BARIE, linen weaver and church elder who also originated from Nérac in the Gascogne and Abraham Nicolas BARIE, linen weaver, mayor, and church elder.

Isaac HERLAN was born on 6 Sep 1678 at Billigheim, Palatinate,, and died in Friedrichstal on 26 Feb 1770 at the biblical age of over 90 years. The HERLAN family came from Houplines on the Lys near Armentières in French Flanders. Jean GIRAUD, also born in Billigheim in 1698, died on 13 Sep 1776. In Pinache (Württemberg) Jean GIRAUD was pastor of the established Waldense parish there from 1701-1718. Klaus PFEIFER, High Government Official at the Government District of Nordbaden., noted both in writing and verbally that the GIRAUD family came from Tavannes, Canton of Bern, in the Swiss Jura. To back up his statement, there is the following marriage entry, dated 28 Feb 1695, in the Reformed Churchbook of Insheim, Volume 1. which is being kept in the Protestant Mainchurch Archive at Speyer: "Jean GERAU from Tavannes in the district Courtlery marries Salome BRUNCH(EN) from Langenbruck, district Basel." These are the parents of Jean GIRAUD. They died in Friedrichstal on 20 Apr 1737 and 20 Dec 1722.

Martin DE LA CROIX, who died here on 22 Feb 1748, was a native of the Low Lands (born in the Netherlands-Belgium/Holland).

Abraham CROCOL, a Waldense from Weischneureut, was accepted as a citizen in 1774. A certain Kaspar SCHERER--written as CHARE often in the French version--came from Sü1lenbach in Canton of Bern; one may safely assume that he was Swiss. The ancestor of the SIEGRIST family immigrated here in the year 1725 from the area of Zürich. VERNIER, a Lutheran citizen from Blammont, Earldom of Montbéliard, Department of Doubs in Franche Comte, is first mentioned in 1728. Nicolas CLOUR, very likely a Waldense, whose father was Clorius CLOUR from the Canton of Bern who had settled there for a few years, married Susanne THIBAUT in 1713 in Welschneureut. Pierre GAGNOL from Valence on the Rhône in the Dauphiné region, was raised in the Roman Catholic church and changed to the Reformed religion in 1710. We meet one Estienne BORTL, a farmer by occupation, in Auerbach (near Langensteinbach). He emigrated from France in 1687 and originated from the province of Dauphiné. Estienne BOREL lived in Switzerland for 3 years, and then served in His Majesty the King of England's service in Piemont as well as on the Rhine. He then settled in Gochsheim with his wife and child. In the oldest church records in Palmbach, Jean GUIGAS and Marie BOREL are mentioned as man and wife in 1712. A Nicolas ROY--an Augustin-, a coalminer who settled in Welschneureut was born in Cotrei "en Lyonois" (area of Lyon).

Abraham DUPUY (DUPUITS), a French Huguenot, later schoolmaster of the French-Reformed school in Friedrichstal, son of Robert DUPUITS, emigrated from France at the age of 15, then lived in Yverdun in Switzerland, and temporarily settled in Auerbach and Langensteinbach. On the 6 May 1700, we find him mentioned as a colonist there. As a homeland, they mention France, "Pays de Gex". Gex is situated about 20 kilometers northwest of Geneva and is the County Seat of the French Département of Ain., located on the eastern slope of the Jura Mountains near the Swiss border. The town of Gex was formerly the capital of the "Pays de Gex" and was annexed to France in 1601. The name DUPUITS can be found in its German form "DUPPUIS" in Leopoldshafen. It is spelled now as it sounds. The German version of the name is also the official version in documents today. Sometimes one also sees the name spelled "DUBBUI". The last living DUPUITS in our community were simply called DUPUS, as that was the pronunciation of the name.

Friedrich DUPPUIS, citizen of Schröck, and his wife Barbara, nee DURRIN (DURR), were the parents of a son Friedrich, born 30 Aug 1780. The child's godfather (according to church records in Leopoldshafen) was Friedrich MICHEL, citizen of Friedrichstal and proprietor of the Lion Inn. In Friedrichstal the DUPUITS family died out in the second half of the last century, while in the erstwhile Schröck (now called Leopoldshafen since 31 Mar 1833) the descendants of Abraham DUPUITS, the schoolmaster, are to be found rather abundantly.

In Karlsruhe, there are two families with the same name as our alderman Jakob GERARDSTEIN (GERARDEIN). The conductor of the Reichsbahn (train system of the Reich), Karl GIRARDEIN was born in Burbach near Saarunion at the border to Lothringen. His ancestors were also Huguenots, originally an aristocratic family who lived in Paris and escaped to the area of Metz after the Massacre of St. Bartholomew on 23/24 Aug 1572. This family is still alive and well with Erwin and Kurt GIRARDIN, both honest tradesmen, in Karlsruhe.

A Jean COTTY, skipper, 31 years old, was from Clairac in the Guyenne (Département Lot-en-Garonne).

Antoine DE VERNIE (VERNIER), a farmer by trade, came from Flanders, and escaped to the Palatinate in 1640 with his wife and 4 children.

François DES PARET came from Paux St. Remi in the Champagne; his fiancee from Pagerne in Switzerland. The wife of an unknown immigrant is from Lausanne (the city of Lausanne). Peter HORNING (HORNUNG), a tailor by trade, immigrated from Bern soon after the establishment of the colony of Friedrichstal. The shepherd Martin MARQUART came from Klein-Villars near Maulbronn. A certain Madeleine PIERROT from Kassel, where a Huguenot settlement had been in existence since 1610, was living in Friedrichstal about 1710. Her father is supposed to have owned and operated a nursery in Kassel at the edge of town. Finally we should mention François GENERAUX, who was the schoolmaster in Friedrichstal for some time; he was born in Morges, Switzerland. Elisabeth FRERIE and Jean VERNIER were both born in Pinache in Württemberg. Johann Peter HERLAN married

Maria Magdalena PETILLON from Winden, district of Bergzabern, in 1785. This is the last "Upper Rhein" Huguenot marriage which can be documented.

From the diversity of the above-mentioned colonists we can see what a colorful mixture of religious refugees populated Friedrichstal in those days and how far reaching their family "trees" were. Unfortunately, as already mentioned, we are unable to say more definite things about their origins. What is necessary are diverse, difficult and expensive single researches to find traces of the Huguenot families who wandered from place to place, especially in view of the fact that they often only mention their last place of habitat, perhaps their home province or area, but not their birthplace or ancestors. This is what makes research into individual families or ancestors extremely difficult. Families who have kept their French-Walloon or Waldensic ancestry completely pure are non-existent today. As already mentioned, sons and daughters in the first decades of the colony (unlike German settlers in foreign countries) married neighbors of German descent so that there was an early mixing of the people, especially in the population of Spöck and Staffort.

Today in the Karlsruhe telephone book, the name GORENFLO is mentioned 18 times, the name DURAND 25 times, and the name HERLAN 31 times. In the Mannheim telephone book, or rather address book, we find the Huguenot name BONNET 6 times (twice BOHNET), LACROIX twice, and LAUX 11 times.

Mr. HOF, the county deacon in Freiburg in Breisgau, has made very valuable contributions to family research. Many people from Friedrichstal can thank him for the establishment of their family ancestry charts which go back to 1699-1700 when Friedrichstal was settled.

Nearly 100 foreign names were at home here at one time, however the number has been greatly reduced now. French surnames which can still be found today in Friedrichstal have been mentioned before. The families CALMEZ and THIBAUT were never very numerous then or now, while the GORENFLO family was the most numerous one in the village. From 1700 to present, it encompasses some 1200 members. The HORNUNG family had about 600 members and the HERLAN family about 500. (These figures were supplied for the most part by Deacon HOF.)

The ROUX, LAUX, TERRAS, AND DEMAREZ families have died out in recent times. One branch of the DEMAREZ family from Friedrichstal is still blossoming today in Eggenstein. The BOREL/BORELL and SCHWEIGER/ SCHWEIGERT families each have the same common ancestor. By writing the name BORELL instead of BOREL, an attempt was made to germanize the name. In 1864 one BOREL began to spell his name with two LL's.

Now to mention a couple of things about the home towns or places of origin of the German-origin families who lived in Friedrichstal around 1800 or before.

The ancestor of the FÜSSLER family came from Böblingen in Württemberg, GASSMANN from Switzerland, ANDHÖRI or ENDHÖRI from the Canton of Bern in Switzerland, HENGST from the vicinity of Ulm, HORNUNG from the Canton of Bern, KAMPMANN from Bromberg (originally from Hamburg), KARLE from Graben, KORBER from Karlsruhe, LICHTENWALTER from Freudenhofen, Brandenburg-Ansbach, MAHLER from Switzerland (in between he settled in Mühlburg), MANZ from Heidelsheim in the Palatinate, MAURER from Kupferzell in the Earldom of Hohenlohe, further there is mention of a KOCHENBACH. MEYER came from Riedt in the Canton of Zürich, RATZ from Blankenbach in Hesse, REUTHER (ed: now RITER in America) from the area of Ansbach, SCHANZ from Gondelsheim, but originally from Neidrichsdorf, in the Canton of Bern. One Albrecht SCHANZ, also from

Neidrichsdorf, settled in Welschneureut in 1720. SCHÖNTHAL came from the Canton of Bern, SCHWEIGER and SCHWEIGERT from Sindolsheim (under the rule of Baron RIEDISCHER, Odenwald), SIEGRIST from Switzerland (the Zürich area), the SIEGRIST name can also be found in Weingarten in 1731. SUTZ is from Switzerland.

One has to mention in this narrative that some of the religious refugees had translated their French names into German so that they would not be recognized as refugees. However, the Germanizing of the French surnames did not take place in our village. The name "MÜLLER" in Welschneureut and Teutschneureut is a Germanization of the Huguenot name "MEUNIER". In Klingen in the Palatinate, one can find the name KREUZ; it is the German version of the name "DE LA CROIX".

Before and around 1900, the following surnames could be found here: BIHN from Menzingen, EITEL from Langenenzlingen, DÖBELIN from Buggingen, GREULE from Ettlingen, HAUTH from Staffort, HERBST from Liedolsheim, KLEIN from Schmieh (Württemberg), KRAMER from St. Leon, OBERACKER from Liedolsheim, ROBIN and MARQUARD from Weingarten, and ZIPPER from Durlach.

Peter ROBIN, a winebarrel-maker by trade, is mentioned in the Weingarten church records in 1729, as is Zacharias MARQUARD, tailor, in 1708. Nothing was found about their hometowns, but both are Huguenot families whose ancestors were driven out of France because of their reformed beliefs.

The Walloons, who were the main core of the actual founders of Friedrichstal, deserve a special mention and, indeed, a special acknowledgment. They outdid both their Flemish and French neighbors in the village because they were active, diligent, skillful, quick to understand, persistent and hard-working. The Walloons are dark-haired and dark-eyed, lively and fast-moving, and are very similar to the French whose language they still speak today. Who would want to be doubtful to give this historic appraisal to the generations who lived so industriously and full of life in our village of Friedrichstal?

Indeed! When one recognizes the assertiveness, the hard-working efforts, the never-ending enterprising undertakings, and their iron will and work, all this is not a chance or a gift of God, but rather an inheritance from their forebearers. Wherever the Huguenots settled, they worked long and hard and very soon became wealthy--a noticeable wealth--no matter if they built factories or tilled the soil.

Every village of the Hardt located in Baden has its own characteristics, both general and specific. Customs, mores,, language, and special character traits give each village its own personal note. The language especially makes the distinction. While the language of the inhabitants of Staffort sounds rather full-mouthed and has a dark coloring, the Spöck language sounds light. One indeed recognizes it by the "r". On the other hand, the speech of a person from Friedrichstal is sharply accentuated, a form of speaking which shows the changeover from the French to the German language. It is also possible that the staccato of the Swiss immigrants' language played a role in this also.

The keen interest that the Margrave Friedrich Magnus, the 7th, showed toward the blossoming of our community meant that the first immigrants quickly felt at home on this foreign soil. The "Romanic lightness" of their blood certainly helped in their adjustment. In the past 250 years, these people of Romanic blood have been completely integrated so that the modern Friedrichstal person is a totally German-feeling person. The changing times and the storms of the past helped to make this so. This new homeland, which granted refuge, space and protection through the kindness of a truly noble prince, has been totally embraced by the descendants. Over and above all that, there is the fact that the longer they stayed, the more German blood flowed into the veins of these Huguenot families, a fact that can be attested by every ancestor chart of every Friedrichstal person. Through this fact, along with others, the acclimatization took place around 1770. Other than through the inherited names, no one remembers the foreign (French) origins of our fathers. The new generations have totally given up being French in their language, thinking and acting. We Friedrichstal people are Germans, although our eastern neighbors sometimes teasingly call us "the Frenchies". More and more traces of our ancestry are disappearing, and only subtly do the modern-day inhabitants remind us of their Western-Romanic origins, although the dark, typical of the Romans, type dominates today. Minister J. F. ERNST notes in 1821: "The characteristics of the French National character can be noticed in many of the people." Mostly one can see it in the women whose color of hair and eyes, and the sparkle of their eyes show their southern heritage. The blood of many French tribes flows in the veins of the Friedrichstal Huguenot families, even though those tribes have long since vanished. In view of this fact, all Friedrichstal "German families" can really be counted into the fold of the actual Huguenot families. In a report written some 80 years ago, the character of the inhabitants is described, as follows:

"In the veins of the inhabitants of Friedrichstal flows the fiery, boiling blood of their homeland; they are easily excited, but, in spite of this, wholesome." This last expression means obedient, hospitable, easy-going and homey people. As years have passed, the German element has come into the foreground more and more because of the immigration of German citizens, people of a totally different way and culture, so that the Romanic element slowly paled--and we cannot be surprised at this change. Indeed, certain character traits which have been inherited from the forefathers cannot be denied by families later on. Mostly, in this regard, we think of ambition and pride. One speaks of the "pride of the Walloons".

Here are some observations made by a civil servant in the 1890's: "The Friedrichstal person is ambitious. He wants to outdo all others. He not only wants to surpass all others in his work performance and in his industriousness, as well as in the clean and healthy look of his fields, he is also most ambitious in regard to frugality, cleanliness, and an orderly household."

"The pride of the Friedrichstal person shows in a highly developed feeling of esteem. As he is rather sensitive, he is also easily upset; on the other hand, he is also quick of movement and always in tune for new things, much more so than the native peasant of that region. Upon longer and closer evaluation, one notices immediately the easy movements, the grace, the passionate way compared to the slow ways of the local Hardt-peasants. In many ways, the Friedrichstal people can be called well-versed because they like to participate in lively discussions, quite contrary to the rather less vocal and untemperamental Hardt peasants, whom one has to press rather hard to express an opinion."

The Tax Commissioner A. STORK, who always came to Friedrichstal in matters relating to his work, writes the following observations about their inns and restaurants:

"The restaurants surpass all other inns in this region as far as cleanliness and well-prepared foods are concerned. The furnishings of the guest rooms are not less elegant than the two-star hotels in this whole area. The cutlery is, quite often, made of silver while in all other inns of the county (Karlsruhe) everything is made of tin."

For the past 250 years, people of Huguenot descent have lived in Friedrichstal. They have lived through eras of German history, they have fought with valor, and have become Germans in small matters as well as large. This was noted by the Frenchman WEISS about 1850: "The descendants seem to have finally lost their old homeland. The new generation is of German heart, as well as language, and one can see that there is no link between them and their old homeland, the land of their fathers." It is true, there is German blood in the veins of the young generations.

Ambitiousness has always been the banner of the Friedrichstal people! 250 years ago the young, unmarried men of the colony were accused of being less than ambitious, among other faults; yet when these same young men matured, they became extremely industrious and frugal, and amassed wealth very quickly, leaving their jealous neighbors far behind! Quite opposite to the customs of other settlers--especially German settlers all over the world--these foreigners quickly mixed with the natives. Therefore they lost their national characteristics quite early. One can rightfully say that they became good Germans in Germany, like their brothers in faith in England became "Englishmen", and in America true "Americans". The noble Margrave Friedrich the 4th wished that they would establish manufacturing (meaning factories), but their resources were very slim as they had been forced to leave all their belongings behind, so these hopes did not always materialize. The very first colonists were really farmers and, not being excessively proud, we can say that the following generations turned out to be first-class farmers.

After the Westphalian Peace Treaty in 1648, Karl Ludwig recalled the Palatinate refugees, and many displaced colonists, especially French, but also Dutch, took him up on his invitation. In the following years, weavers from Lüttich, Namur and outlying areas settled in Schönau near Heidelberg. As late as the year 1800, about 70 weavers still made a good living there. At the same time, there was great praise for the excellent weaving done by the weavers of the Rhein Palatinate who were of Huguenot descent. There are some surnames today in the small town of Schönau which remind us of the French-Walloon weavers, although these names have been Germanized.

The singularness of the community consists of the fact that the inhabitants of the village--quite contrary to other Hardt-villages and communities--have remained mostly farmers, even though the trend towards factories has become more prevalent of late. The meager 20 workers, at the turn of the century, who daily drove to the factories in Karlsruhe cannot be counted as significant. It is a very minor figure when one considers that the community of Spöck, with its rich soil, sent about 250 workers daily to Karlsruhe, Bruchsal, and Durlach at this same time. The Friedrichstal person seemed to regard factory work as a disgrace, because in their eyes the factory worker was of no value. That is another sign of how strongly our ancestors were linked to the soil, as were their descendants--even though we personally cannot share the opinions of the people of that time. If you think about it, what would the farmer be without the factory worker! The strange thing is that the Friedrichstal inhabitant has always remained farmer or worker-farmer even though the farms have been relatively small.

Violent crimes occur here very seldom and even beatings and other small crimes are very rare. Suicide has been extremely rare, which also speaks well of the high moral fiber of the community.

The community grew as foreign, in this case German, tradesmen and artisans moved here, founded a solid existence and became prosperous. The first real reason for an orderly settling of Germans was the noticeable lack of tradesmen. Because of this, no one hindered the settling of the Germans. Marriages between the Huguenot sons and daughters and neighboring villagers (especially those from the Hardt-villages) had begun in the first decades after the founding of Friedrichstal, so that the Western element became diluted. Nonetheless, the dark, Romanic type will always be noticeable in upcoming generations of our village. In ending this paragraph, we have learned from world history that our ancestors came from areas whose inhabitants, from the days of the Franks and Burgunds (Belgium, Northern France, French-Italian Alpine areas), have been strongly influenced by Germanic blood mixtures.

Every political, cultural or economic happening which influenced the population of the Upper Rhine region in its development would also mold the fate of our dear inhabitants of Friedrichstal.

The mixing of our ancestral population continued steadily, naturally and without coercion, so that this group quickly became a strong part of the German people. In a truly remarkable bond with the State, in only a two-and-a-half century time span, this settlement valiantly fought for and shed their blood for their beloved Fatherland.

The Time of Dual Language, and the Changing of French to German.

As long as our ancestors lived in Belgium, France, the Piemont, and Welsh (French) Switzerland, they spoke and wrote their French mother tongue. Only a few colonists spoke the German tongue, and those had come to this area via Switzerland with the stream of Piemontese Waldenser refugees. At just about the same time, a great number of German-speaking Swiss settled in Germany along with some Swiss from the western section, who spoke French. Shortly after the establishment of Friedrichstal in 1700, there were some immigrants who only spoke German. Therefore, almost from the beginning of the village, there existed a dual language situation. The first alderman of the village, Jacques GORENFLO, only used the French language. Obviously, the succeeding aldermen CURNEUX and GERARDEIN had lived longer in the German area than our other ancestors because they wrote all "demands" in both French and German. They used both languages for other matters of importance. GERARDEIN used German in official matters around 1720. Although French was the official language of the village, he seemed to delight in using the German, even though it would have been much easier for him to use the French language as it was his Mother Tongue. Jean TERRASS, the fourth alderman of Friedrichstal, was fluent in both French and German, and in 1740 used then both verbally and in writing. We may assume that it was quite difficult for our ancestors, the so-called Welsh (French/Latin), to learn the German language even though they needed to know it. In this entire region, they did not hear any learned German, the kind used in letters and documents, and only occasionally did the community leaders hear the beautiful sound of the German language --while at the Karlsburg Castle in Durlach, or later at the residence of the Margrave in Karlsruhe. Nowhere is there a notation that they were forbidden to speak French. It was truly fortunate that our ancestors were not forced to abandon their native language--the language of their forefathers. Just the opposite was true and their rights were protected. To our ancestors, the French language was their most cherished possession in an area of German-speaking people. And for more than 100 years, the little ones would sing and speak their nursery rhymes in French while playing their games, even though they used a sprinkling of German. The last pitiful remnants of their native tongue still echoed in the dreams of the women for years to come.

How, then, did the change-over from French to German happen?

In the beginning, our ancestors learned the names of the neighboring villages. They correctly pronounced "Speck" (Spöck), but wrote it as in French, "Speque". They heard the name "HUBER", but wrote it "HOUBRE". In due time more "borrowing" from the German language became necessary. Slowly their vocabulary became extended and filled with new German word treasures. They began to speak German names, both first and surnames; they used everyday German words for tools and household items. They learned German trade names. They used more and more German names for items used daily, but gave them a slight French coloring in language as well as writing--in short, making the German language slightly French. That is how the dual language appeared. Greater numbers of our ancestors began to speak two languages, and even to think that way. As time went by they forgot how to spell in French, as one can see in all community writings during the period 1720 to 1760. They inadvertently used German terms or words closely related, but gave them a French accent. In 1765, the first name Frédéric appears once as "Friterri" and then as "Friteric". Meanwhile, the German-speaking Swiss and the descendants of the French, Walloon, and Waldense settlers managed to learn German in spite of their various dialects. Therefore the change-over took place slowly and gradually, and some French words and idiomatic expressions were still being used in the middle of the 19th century.

Two decades after the establishment of the colony, they still demanded a minister who could speak French as well as German. Their wishes were answered all the time by the Margrave, who was most intent upon seeing that the colony always had pastors who could converse fluently in both languages. This command by the Margrave was fair to both the French and German elements of Friedrichstal, and also furthered the intellectual and cultural life of the colonists and stimulated an influence on each faction with great results.

Many an old woman still remembered a number of French expressions from their early childhood. As late as the middle of the 1800's, the "old ones" would say to their children when they sent them to the grocery, "Allez chercher toute de suite-vinaigre" instead of telling them to "fetch some vinegar quickly"in German. Those French sentences and word associations have disappeared from use and the people cannot recall such phrases being used in their lifetime--not even the oldest inhabitants.

(Have omitted here the translation of French/German idiomatic expressions used at times in the old colony.)

The peculiar expressions can be found more frequently in old legislation of the colony. From all these examples we can ascertain that our forefathers were very familiar with the phonetics of the language, especially in singular descriptions of items and sentences, but they made up their own orthography, and did not bother to learn the German way of spelling. In 1740, about one-third of the population still spoke French, but slowly this bilingual condition began to phase out. In probate records in the year 1776, only one-half of the papers are in German. In 1800, the number of French-speaking Friedrichstalers could be counted on one hand, and yet they mixed the Friedrichstal dialect quite strongly with French words all the way to 1850. Truly, the researcher would have found a number of French expressions and sentences only several decades ago. However, the last remnants of the language of our fathers has died away and can be heard no more; the present generation can no longer speak any "Welsh" (foreign) sentences.

All in all, our village seems to be an island of distinctive language and is the most noteworthy in the whole Hardt region in this respect. Her dialectic expressions show the foreign influence of the inhabitants.

Not a single Friedrichstal person over the course of two-and-a-half centuries ever adopted the speech of the inhabitants of Spöck. The Spöck people, according to their own opinion, were damaged by the immigration of the colony of Friedrichstal and, therefore, remained hostile to the "French". On the other hand, the people of Friedrichstal did not attempt to have language contact with the people of Spöck, just as the Welschneureut people did not have contact with the inhabitants of Teutschneureut.

However, there was no real force from anywhere to learn the German language. Everything was left to natural development, according to necessity, and therefore a true Friedrichstal dialect developed.

CUSTOMS AND HABITS

Every village, whether large or small, has its own makeup and customs. These-singularities have been formed from ancient times on and have been altered constantly over the years. How we would love to be able to see into our ancestors times some 250 years ago. The customs of our grandparents' and great-grandparents' time have been completely lost to our younger generation. Many things have been discarded as being old and therefore no longer useful. Modern ideas dominated and everything 'old-fashioned' was quickly thrown out. Whatever is not mentioned in these paragraphs will be honored in other parts of this book.

Despite modernization, many old customs and ideas, which often expressed deep meanings, have prevailed until today. However, there are not many foreign customs here in our village. The German influence, which became strong after the first 50 years, dominated so much so that the formerly "Welsh" habits of the inhabitants were totally lost. The adjustment in this respect went rather quickly. The honorable reader must refrain from looking for anything typically 'Friedrichstal' in the later mentioned customs and habits.

In the first decades after the establishment of Friedrichstal, which as one can ascertain is of Netherland-Walloon (Huguenot) origin, the villagers dressed in a special way--the women wore a dirndle-type dress. Those who were about to be confirmed wore a triangular white scarf over their shoulders on the day of confirmation. This scarf was made of linen-lace or ornamental-type of netting-lace (Litzen-lace: Netherland; Valenciennes: France; Mecheln: North Belgium-Brabant). One can see this costume on slides taken at our 200th-Year Celebration as well as at the inauguration of the new children's school in 1911. The little girls are quite adorable in their white caps. Deacon ROTH has to be given credit for the idea of wearing these costumes for Sundays and holidays. Nowhere else in the entire Hardt-region can one find the shoulder scarves of the confirmed like one sees in Friedrichstal. In the Huguenot colonies in the Palatinate, these costumes were worn for a much longer time than in Friedrichstal. About 1770, the men were wearing gray stockings, suede leather pants, a blazer of blue or green cloth adorned with many buttons, along with a rough shirt of linen, a fur hat lined with green-cloth or a 3-cornered hat. To make this attractive picture complete, one has to add the long pipes (in vogue until 1920) and a real old-fashioned parablé (umbrella), under which the entire family could find shelter. This was the style until some 60 to 80 years ago, when the modern suit replaced these garments.

The Friedrichstal woman wore a black silk skirt with many pleats, a black top and a large scarf, along with a fancy white cap. Unfortunately many of these outfits fell victim to several 'drives' to collect unused materials (ed: probably during the wars) and therefore are no longer in existence.

Even the ornamentally decorated Kapott hiltle (certain style of hat), which did not require much room, also became a victim of the times. It is no wonder that, in view of these facts, nothing is left to remind us of the good old days. Dr. M. HECHT, who was the last Director of the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Baden, wrote in his thesis for his Doctor's Degree in 1895 "Three Villages of the Baden Hardt", the following

"The higher standard of living of the Friedrichstal people, which we have already recognized in their way of eating, we also find in their clothing. The Friedrichstal girls know how to dress nobly, and a certain city-like elegance is to be noted in their way of dressing. When the Friedrichstal beauty promenades occasionally on the Karlsruhe Street (Kaiser Street) only the well-acquainted person would be able to recognize that the elegant young lady is the daughter of this or that Friedrichstal farmer. Even the Friedrichstal farmer, who works several acres and has meadowland as a tenant farmer, would not think of going to the neighboring village in his work-clothes; the people of Graben and Neudorf must see that he is proud enough to dress up. When he has to go into the village during harvest-time, he changes his clothes and puts on his Sunday best or another smock."

All holidays have their own individuality, but especially so the Christmas season with the Christmas tree. Since the beginning of Friedrichstal, the Christmas tree decorates the livingroom. The immigrants of Swiss origin have made it a lasting symbol here. Weeks before Christmas, the smell of delicious sugarbreads of all sorts comes from all the homes. Happy children come and go from relatives' homes with delicious sugar-rolls. It is still customary nowadays that pretzels and gingerbread are given away on the Sundays before Christmas.

On New Year's Eve, the arrival of the new year is greeted by the tolling of bells, along with trombones and the church choir. One wishes "the best to you in the coming year" with heartfelt emotion.

Mardi Gras customs are not known around here, but nevertheless, one happily munches on the cakes that are especially baked for the occasion elsewhere. The people here are Protestants, and the German Fastnacht (Mardi Gras) is a Catholic celebration.

In winter, the young people are especially busy when it is snowy. What wonderful fun it was on the snow-covered slopes with "Rosskopf" and "Stachler" (brand names of sleds). These speedy little sleds could compete very well with the modern "Grönlanders" as far as speed was concerned.

Of course, the Easter Bunny is laying eggs. Sugar eggs, chocolate eggs, and real eggs. What great fun it is for the little ones to find the eggs on Easter morning and to look for the Easter Bunny. There are also sugar and chocolate bunnies for the lovers of sweets.

On the evening before the first Sunday in May, the exquisitely decorated Maypole is erected, it is also done in honor of each newly elected Mayor. A May bouquet is reserved for one's special loved one.

Spring is here! Many festivals are beginning. Spring festivals, garden parties, woodland festivals, 'summer night's festivals, festivals and more festivals. The church festival (fair), which we celebrate on the 4th Tuesday and Wednesday in October, has its special note because it is celebrated on workdays. It is a Thanksgiving for the farmers and without exaggeration one may assume that the bodily needs are well taken care of.

A very special occasion and reason for celebration is a wedding! It is a special occasion in the course of one's lifetime! Of special importance has always been the wedding table and wedding feast. It seems that in former times weddings lasted for more than one day. However, Markgrave Carl Friedrich was very intent that weddings should not last more than one day and made rules to prevent the celebration from lasting longer. The alderman for each elected period had to give his report to the authorities to assure them that this ordinance had been kept. The number of wedding guests could not exceed 24, no strangers could participate in any of the wedding dances, and all had to be over by 11 P.M. They gave homespun linen as gifts to the bride and fruit for the bridegroom. But the bridegroom also had certain obligations (see

"The Firefighters"). For many years the parish gave a bible to the young couple as a remembrance of their wedding day and for their own personal use. The Silver, Golden, Diamond and Iron Wedding Anniversaries were also celebrated in style.

When someone in the village dies, the death-bell tolls (as of 1948). The Death-sayer tells who died and when the burial will be. In the days of the guilds, when a tradesman died, his fellow guild-members carried him to his final resting place. The dead were carried by their neighbors to their graves; in the year 1925 the use of hearses began. Until the end of World War I, upper-class schoolchildren sang hymns at the burial chapel, on the way to the cemetery and at the graveside. Now both the local choirs, and sometimes the church choir and trombone choir as well, give the deceased their final respects. The burial service in the church is now the end of the burial rites.

Old Testament names like Moses, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, David, Daniel, Sara, Esther, Rebekka, Ruth, Judith, Rachel were very widely used during the last 150 years, and can be found in the ancestor charts of every Friedrichstaler. The use of Old Testament names was truly a real Huguenot custom.

These were then discarded for princely names like Karl, Freidrich, Ludwig, Wilhelm, etc. Likewise, different names became the vogue for girls. Modern names are very familiar to us now. As anywhere else, we also use nicknames, names of description, shortened versions of names, endearing names and curse names.

So-called peasants rules, descriptions and observations of the weather are common knowledge.

It is customary to greet one another. It is truly one's duty. Commonly it is alluded to as "one giving the other the time of day". The younger ones have to greet the elders. One would have to look far for someone not doing this. When one is at work, one uses an active verb instead of a greeting. It is entirely equal to a greeting. Some examples are: Busy? Sitting? Digging? Picking up? Heads? Piling up? Cutting? Break loose? Fixing? Work together? Go away, tomorrow is another day?

Poems which have been taught to little children seem to work wonders, for example:
(4 poems, which we elected not to include)

Old inscriptions on houses are no longer being done. At the children's school we can find:
"Let the children come to me!" Mark 10,14.
Especially happy is the saying on the house located at 32 Hilda Street:
"God keep watch in true fashion
In this house both night and day."
On a frame house located at 41 Rhine Street, we can read:
"You meant mean things for me,
but God meant well!"
(1 Mos. 50, V.20)

We cannot speak of an acute flight from the country to the city. The Friedrichstal person is a true homesteader and loves his homeland above all. He is always helpful to strangers. To brothers and sisters he never denied help. A healthy and steady peasant stock, descendants of the founders, guarantee the structure and future of our village. We know that our neighbors by and large give us good testimonials, even though they cannot help but express a smidgen of envy. The love of one's own soil is the true foundation for the love for one's own country! With joyful hearts, we Friedrichstalers are singing: (Words to song not translated)

THE IMMIGRANTS

"Your forests I hear singing, and I hear the birds' song.
0, sweet homeland, wonderfully sweet, how well I remember you.
Roses bloom there on the slopes in the sundrenched quiet.

Homeland, oh Homeland, always dear, how uniquely beautiful you are!

Quickly flying was the swallow far above the blue seas,
Brought many lovely greetings from the beloved homeland,
And in quiet nights I constantly seem to hear,
Homeland, oh Homeland, always dear, oh how simply beautiful you are!

Hark, is that not sounding bells in the last suns rays?
It seems to me as if I saw a cabin far away in yonder valley.
Far away from blooming fields a peaceful breath is flowing my way:
Homeland, oh Homeland, always dear, oh how simply beautiful you are!

"Farewell" the peasant said quietly to the soil of his wheat field, while he slowly walked along with his scythe, which he swung wide, to and fro. The falling stalks sank before him as the days of the preceding years went by in his thoughts, about which he was now musing. Yes, every swing of the scythe seemed to go right through to his heart. The difficult and painful goodbye to his homeland was more heart-rending than he could have anticipated; was it not like a farewell to life?!

The life that he would start anew in an unknown country, where he had neither roots to the past nor the sight of familiar things, would be completely unknown. Now, another person would plow his land and would sow the seed, because the farmer had decided that he would emigrate!

Emigration played an important role also in our Friedrichstal, especially over the ocean to the United States of North America. A great number of our village inhabitants were going there, and therefore influenced greatly the history of our colony.

Very often it was a whole family unit, then again single, adventurous young men and, here and there, single young women and girls who said goodbye forever to their homeland. Those who left were not among the bad ones, because it took great courage and decisiveness to start a new existence elsewhere, not to mention the hard work and dedication that would be needed in the first years in their new land. Under very trying circumstances and difficult situations, they have shown themselves quite capable of coping. Many of our kind have attained a good life and often quite an accumulation of wealth over there in America, the land of endless opportunities. Our homeland can be quite proud of these former citizens! Almost all of our "Americans" out there in the New World have turned out to be an honor to their homeland and their remaining relatives, and that pleases us mightily! To them all, a most heartfelt hello from the Old Country!

What were the reasons for the emigration? One thing is for certain, most of the people left because of economic reasons. With the ever increasing population, many people began to complain about the lack of space and the diminishing acreage. Especially in Friedrichstal, one could feel these problems most. The emigration of one family with nine children who had left for America was, among other reasons, explained like this:

"Because of the small size of tillable land, the family's whole existence depended upon the tobacco crop, and due to poor growing conditions that year, the existence of the family was in jeopardy."

In 1854, a young single man without means who wished to emigrate to America was advised by a village councilman to "go from house to house and ask for donations due to their generous hearts."

Driven by adverse circumstances, the emigrants had hopes of being successful in the new homeland or at least being better than they could have achieved at home. Of course, here and there, it was pure love of adventure that played a role in leaving, and a few simply followed the call of the Almighty Dollar. But most of them simply went out of necessity rather than any feelings of adventure or greed.

The first documented Friedrichstal emigrants had already left their homeland a few years after the establishment of the colony, to find their luck in the Palatinate, in the areas of Billigheim and Mörlheim, where the soil is rich and abundant. Herewith, it must be mentioned that around 1720 most of the widely scattered colonists of Gochsheim, Auerbach, Stein near Pforzheim, Kleinsteinbach, Mutschelbach, Langensteinbach, and Palmbach left their guest-homeland (Germany) to leave for Prussia or America. Of the former Wüttembergian Waldense colony Palmbach in 1720, about 15 families left for Berlin together. Jean Pierre GIRAUD moved away in 1730 with "the capital or stock with him." Pierre GORENFLO from Friedrichstal left around 1730 to settle in Rinklingen near Bretten. In the house No. 70, formerly the Inn To The Stars, opposite the Village Hall, one can see the inscription "Pierre GORENFLO 1732" on a beam in the opening of the drive-through. Unfortunately, nothing further could be found out about Pierre GORENFLO in the churchbooks of Rinklingen, despite the most concentrated efforts. Perhaps his family is flourishing like that of the BONNET family, in North America for now well over 200 years. Because of the emigration of that era the Prince issued a decree to those who were planning to travel to the new country. It said therein: "Since we have been told that such country (the United States) is already populated, it is therefore our admonishment that our subjects should herewith refrain from such an undertaking." Unbelievable, but true! Millions and many more millions nowadays would still find room for settling in the 'land of unlimited possibilities!'

On March 14, 1770, we find the note from a leading tradesman from Rotterdam that the local citizen Abraham HERLAN died in Batavia, East India. He had not been married. If he was working in Java by order of a Dutch business or if he had settled there, it is not known to us.

Now we ask ourselves, where did these people settle in the new country or in the "island of Pennsylvania" (as stated in an old yellow document). Others, at first, sought their fortunes in Switzerland, where they purchased a larger area of land at Stalden, in the parish of Bözberg, Canton of Aargau. The land consisted of acreage, woodland, grazing land and grapevines. However, in a very short time, these people left Switzerland forever to emigrate to America in 1845. A certain Eva GIRAUD married Paul RENAUD of Welsch-Neureut and in 1820 emigrated to Poland. The Isaac DUPUIT children settled at Ludwigsberg, Poland, about the same time. One emigrant even found a new home, even though only temporary, in the far southeast--Australia. A certain Johann SIEGRIST lived in Bologna and died there. A mass emigration from Baden occurred in the years 1832 to 1836 and 1852 to 1854. In the first mentioned time span, about 100 persons left Friedrichstal with permission from the ruling head, and how many people, especially the young, we ask, left without permission; and among these 100 persons were about 20 families, at that time about 1/8th of the population, who left house and home to earn their daily bread across the "big water" or in the "new land". At first, these emigrants found a place to stay with family or friends.

At that same time, about 50,000 people, or about 4% of the population of Baden, bid farewell to their homeland (in Baden). This was a loss to the German population that was never replaced. Another mighty wave of emigrants arose again in the 1880's, although the force of emigration had never totally subsided after the first two waves. The number of Friedrichstal inhabitants in 1880 was 1,141, while in 1890 there was one less inhabitant for a total of 1,140.

Records in the Baden Bureau of Vital Statistics document that between the years 1880 and 1890, 6,799 persons emigrated yearly to America. From 1890 to 1900, the rate fell to 2,440 yearly.

Numerous shipowners organized the emigration and encouraged the wanderlust-filled people with tempting newspaper ads.

The Union Company of Frankfurt on the Main advertised that the cheapest and fastest way to travel to America was by boat via Rotterdam, London, Liverpool, beginning in Mannheim. The price for adults was only 75 florin, children's rates were 57 florin, and that price included food during passage (bread baked on board ship, rice, flour, meat) and lodging in Rotterdam, London and Liverpool. Other travel companies recommended the trip by way of LeHavre, France. A Rhine steamer was scheduled to depart from Mannheim every Saturday. The travel time from Mannheim to New York was 30 to 35 days on the best steamers, to New Orleans 40 to 45 days. Special travel guides accompanied the emigrants on the ships and in America they were greeted by Germans. Despite these enticements, the emigrants also received many warnings. The Prefect of the Lower Rhine, Chauppin d'Arnouville gives us an interesting look at the misery and distress encountered by the emigrants in LeHavre.

Circular dated Strassburg, the 2nd of May, 1832:

To the Messrs. Mayor about the terrible situation in which the emigrants to North America are finding themselves in LeHavre.

Gentlemen! My colleague from the Department of the Lower Seine just now finished his report to the Minister of the Interior about the severity of the situation in which the emigrants are finding themselves, the ones from Germany and some other areas of the Kingdom, and who in the port of Havre are awaiting an opportunity to sail to America. The often-changing number of the unfortunates almost always is between 12 and 1300. The city of Havre is trying to send them away as much as possible, and people in the country are not much more hospitable; they have been squeezed into some villages, where their proximity to the inhabitants is viewed as a source of contagiousness. Cholera has started among them.

The municipal administrations have controlled the number of beds which the innkeepers can set up according to the size of their hotels or inns; however these precautionary measures and others are hardly sufficient to safeguard the general health. Nothing equals the misery in which the families find themselves, since they already have used up the meager sums which they brought along for the trip to America.

The administration tries everything to make these unfortunate ones return, the ones whose papers are not totally in order or those whose means of help have dried up. A much better way for dissuading them would be to tell them of the fate that will await them and not rely on their vain hopes or listen to the speculators who fill them with idle talk. The administration makes it their duty to warn them of the miseries which will befall them when they leave their native soil.

I know full well that they have been misled by some parties, who entice the inhabitants to sell their goods terribly cheap towards documents of ownership, which these parties falsely claim to possess in America -- so-called letters of sale -- but their being genuine cannot be proved.

I leave it to you, dear Sirs, to stop these practices. You should tell these people in their various areas of living that they have been victims of false information, and yet they follow them blindly. Please keep on repeating to the unfortunate ones, who are being bamboozled with foolish hopes, that their sources of help have dried up when they arrive at these various ports; and that when they hardly have arrived upon American soil, for which they have so foolishly lusted, that they will be forced there to sell their personal freedoms, that they have to leave one another and to disperse to try to find means of support in a country where they have no relatives, no supporters, no more friends. Tell them that their great numbers have contributed to the outbreak of the Cholera in this city, and that this disease itself is wreaking great havoc, and that many of them will surely suffer their death here, and that others surely will find their death while blindly trying to find their fortunes on the other side of the ocean.

I commend the subject of this circular especially to your attention and to your humaneness. I especially invite all you gentlemen dearly to do everything in your power to let this circular be known. It should be read after the church services at the door.

The Prefect of the Lower Rhine

(Signed) Chauppin d'Arnouville

It seems to us almost as foolishness to talk about the "good old times" where so many children of the Land had to leave their homeland. May they and all their descendants bloom with greatest happiness in their new homeland. They, their children and grandchildren will always be especially welcome in Friedrichstal so that we together may rejoice as sons and daughters of our great wonderful German Fatherland.

JEAN DELATTRE

(On December 22, 1999, I (Glen Delawder) received the following very informative email from Jean Delattre.)

Familly of David Delattre senior borned La Bassée (near Lille, Flanders)

From Jean Delattre, Seclin France (near Lille)

Hello.

After many searchs on the web and in the french archives, I have found a David Delattre, christened 12/25/1611 (25 décembre 1611) in Norwich (Norfolk, England) whose father was Guillaume Delattre (gillaume de Lattre). They were walloons (huguenots of the north of "France", France is with quotes because this land was not really the property of the King of France).

This is an interpretation of the history of the huguenot Delattre's familly:

Guillaume Delattre emigrate from the actual north french territory during the religious's war for England. He has a son, David. David come back in France (with the help of The Edict of Nantes, note that Henry IV was murdered in 1610). David may have brothers and sisters?

David may have three sons:

Martin borned 1655 (+/- one year)

David borned 1656 (+/- one year) -→ your ancestor

Thomas borned 1657(+/- one year) -→ my ancestor

Or David had brothers whose sons were Martin and Thomas.Years of birth of Martin, David and Thomas seems to be th real fact.

Guillaume Delattre

David Delattre(1611-after 1656) unknow Delattre

David Delattre(1656-1726) Martin Delattre(1655) Thomas Delattre (1657)

These options must be verified.

Merry Christmas and Happy new year.

A family on the Move:
Origins of the Bedillion/Petillon Family

by Gary T. Horlacher(1), 1998

During the mid-18th century, an estimated 65,000 immigrants arrived in America from German speaking countries(2). Between 1727-1775, 36,000 German speaking foreigners arrived in Pennsylvania alone(3).

Interest in tracing the origins of these families began in the late-19th century as genealogy first became a hobby. In the last two decades, several general works have been published identifying the origins of a large number of these families that settled together in America or left from neighboring towns in Germany(4).

Although articles have previously been published here for mainstream German emigrants(5), many of those following this same migration route had not been native Germans more than a couple generations. For these families, the trip from Germany to America was just another chapter in an ongoing journey across two continents.

The story of searching one such family, the Bedillon family, uncovered a history of a family through five countries and four languages. It was a history not uncommon in the origin of the Pennsylvania Dutch families. This article gives the details of the research strategies used and a historical background showing forces that led this family to emigration.

The quest to find the origins of the Bedillion family began in Ohio County, West Virginia with Elizabeth Bedillian (sic) who married William Wylie there in 1844(6). As it was not obvious who the parents of Elizabeth Bedillion were, a general study was made to gather as much information on the Bedillion family as possible from all available sources.

This preliminary research identified a B.Dillon family that had settled in Ohio. In the 1840 census of Zane Township, Logan County, Ohio, there were six B.Dillon families listed(7): A. B.Dillon, Thomas B.Dillon, Isaac B.Dillon, Benjamin B.Dillon, Samuel B.Dillon, and David B.Dillon. Likewise additional variations of this name were found in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, West Virginia, and Maryland including the following: Bedillon, BeDillion, Berdillen, Bedulion, Bettleon, Bettlin, Beltin, Betlegan, Bedlion, Bedallon, Betillion, Bettillion, Bedittlion, Betitton, Peatalon, Patelon, Betleon, Bedallon, Betilion, Bidelyoung, etc.

Gathering up leads from census, probate, church, and land records for families with these various spellings in these several states, some patterns began to emerge. Two branches of the Bedillion families were identified: descendants of Abraham Bedillon of Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania and descendants of Philipp Bedillon of Lebanon County, Pennsylvania.

ABRAHAM BEDILLION FAMILY

The B.Dillon family of Logan County, Ohio belonged to this branch of the family. Abraham Bedillon came to Philadelphia October 7, 1751 on the ship Janet(8), last from Rotterdam. He and his wife Margaretha had nine children, the first born being before the left Germany:

Catharina Bedillion b 23 Feb 1751, died young.
Magdalena Bedillion b 1753. She md 6 Oct 1772 John Redebach in Phildelphia and had 2 children in Germantown.
Elisabeth Bedillion chr 14 Dec 1755 Germantown, Philadelphia, PA.
Abraham Bedillion b 14 Aug 1758 Germantown, Philadelphia, PA, died young Isaac Bedillion b 14 Aug 1758 Germantown. He md 1) 16 Mar 1781 Magdalena Dunn and 2) 1 Apr 1788 Ursula Hurff. His descendants settled first in Glouchester County, New Jersey and later moved to Logan County, Ohio. They include the B.Dillon family mentioned previously.

Margareth Bedillion b 24 Feb 1760 Germantown.
Anna Catharina Bedillion b 29 Jan 1763 Philadelphia. She md 10 May 1781 Isaac Jones in Philadelphia.
Jacob Bedillion b 29 Jan 1763 Philadelphia.
Abraham Bedillion b 6 Dec 1768 Germantown.

Although this family originally settled in Philadelphia County and the children were christened in Philadelphia (St. Michael's Church) and in Germantown, descendants of this family moved to Glouchester County, New Jersey; Logan County, Ohio; and further west.

JOHANN PHILIPP BEDILLION

The other Bedillion family in early America records appears to be descended of Johann Philipp Bedillion who came to Philadelphia on the ship Snow Kitty(9) on October 16, 1752. He appears to have come over as a young single man. Not long after his arrival he was married to Anna Barbara (maiden name unknown). They had nine children in Pennsylvania:

Johann Philip Bedillion chr 1 Sep 1755 Hill Reformed Church in Annville Township, Lebanon County, PA.
Abraham Bedillion b abt 1757, died 18 Jul 1827. He md abt 1782/1784 Elizabeth Weirick [d 24 Mar 1838]. They moved west to Washington County, Pennsylvania where they had several children.
Barbara Bedillion b abt 1759. She md 20 Apr 1779 Johannes Palm in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania.
Peter Bedillion b abt 1760, d 1793/1800.
Anna Christina Bedillion md abt 1779 Henry Shaffner. They resided in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania and had eight children there.
Elizabeth Bedillion md abt 1795 Jacob Ellinger. They had 3 children in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania.
Catharina Bedillion md 1) abt 1790 George Sider, 2) Mr. Stiger. She resided in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania.
Rachel Bedillion
Isaac Bedillion b 1770, md Mary. They had a son John Bedillion.

Philipp Bedillon was a resident of Londonderry Township, which was first part of Lancaster County, then became part of Dauphin County, and finally became part of Lebanon County, Pennsylvania. His son Abraham and other descendants moved west to Washington County, Pennsylvania; Ohio County, West Virginia; and Belmont and Washington Counties in Ohio.

GERMAN ORIGIN

In order to identify the origin of this family in Germany, a study of the passenger list Janet in 1751 showed that 25 passengers were from villages in the Palatinate region of Germany: 5 from Freckenfeld, 5 from Eiterbach, 3 from Winden, 3 from Hochstadt, and one from Minden(10). Studying passenger list of the Snow Kitty in 1753, again 25 passengers were from this area: 1 from Annweiler, 18 from Edenkoben, 2 from Freckenfeld, 1 from Roth near Landau, 3 from Minfeld, and 2 from Bergzabern.(11)

Freckenfeld was a common town of origin on both of these lists. One of the immigrants on the ship in 1751 was Georg Jacob Schirmer from Winden. Abraham Bedillion was later listed as a christening sponsor for children of a Peter Schirmer in Germantown, Pennsylvania. The International Genealogical Index (IGI) also had listings for the Bedillion family in the town of Winden and nearby towns of Barbelroth and Billigheim.

Searching the German records of the 17th and 18th century of this entire region, the Bedillion family was identified and the ancestry of Abraham and Philipp Bedillion was compiled. They were in fact from the town of Winden in the Palatinate region of Germany. As has been identified in the American sources, German sources also listed the spelling of the name variously. Most commonly, however, seemed to be the spellings: Petillion, Ptillion, and Petillon.
By compiling these sources, it was determined that Abraham and Johann Philipp were sons of Isaac Petillion of Winden. Isaac Petillion b 20 Sep 1685 Winden, married 15 Nov 1718 Maria Elisabeth Vantier [b 12 Jan 1698 Winden, d 11 Nov 1783 Winden] in Winden(12). They had 9 children:

Susanna Petillion b 2 Jul 1719 Winden. She had an illegitimate son: Johann Jacob Petillion b 9 Sep 1748 Winden.

Abraham Petillion chr 22 Jun 1721 Winden. He md 12 Oct 1750 Maria Margaretha Rütter in Winden. They had a daughter Catharina b 23 Feb 1751 in Winden. They emigrated to Pennsylvania in 1751 and settled in Philadelphia County [see above].

Jacob Petillion chr Sep 1723 Winden

Johannes Petillion chr 24 Feb 1726, d 23 Jan 1743 Winden.

Maria Elisabetha Petillion chr Sep 1728, d 8 Aug 1738 Winden.

Johann Philipp Petillion b 18 Dec 1730, d 1801/1802. He went to Pennsylvania in 1752 and settled in the Lebanon County area [see above].

Maria Johanna Petillion b 26 Apr 1733 Winden.

Isaac Petillion b 11 Jun 1734 Winden, d 16 Aug 1762 Winden.

Peter Petillion b 26 May 1741 Winden. He md 20 Sep 1763 Maria Elisabetha LeBlace (Laplos) in Winden. Their descendants remained in the Winden, Germany region.

At least two sons in this family went to America while the parents and others of the family remained in Germany.

PETILLION BEGINNINGS IN GERMANY

The father of Isaac Petillon was Jacob Petillon, who was also listed in the early records as Jacque Petillon. From the records of Barbelroth and Winden Parishes(13), the following family was compiled for Jacob Petillon:

Jacob (Jacque) Petillon was born about 1653 and died before 1715 in winden, age 62 years old. He married Maria Herland, daughter of Jean Herland and Margarita La Ratte. They had 5 children:

Andreas Petillon born about 1680, buried 16 Sep 1749 Winden, md Anna Delhay.

Abraham Petillon born about 2 Apr 1682, buried 11 Dec 1739 Winden, md 9 Sep 1716 Maria Schoena Gomber in Winden.

Isaac Petillon born 20 Sep 1685 Winden.

Jacob Petillon b 11 Sep 1687 Winden, buried 8 Sep 1753 Winden, md 23 Nov 1717 Anna Catharina Wuest in Winden.

Esther Petillon b abt 1690 Winden. She md 26 Feb 1718 Jean (Johann) de Ras (Terrase) in Winden.

The Petillion family was not originally a German family. By the 1750's the family had already been in Germany three generations and must have felt at home with German language and customs, however, by researching in the German records before the 1720's, the French influence becomes more and more obvious. For example, Jacob Petillion is referred to often as Jacque Petillon. His wife was listed as the daughter of Jean Herlan and Margarita La Ratte and his daughter married a Jean de Ras, all French sounding names.

Before 1713, the records of Winden Parish were kept together with those from Barbelroth Parish. During the 30-Years War, this entire region had been devastated. As the church books of Barbelroth extend back to before the War, an idea of the type of destruction and depopulation of this region can be seen from looking at these records(14). At the beginning of the war there were 30-40 children baptized each year. The numbers then steadily decreased from 1627 on, showing only 2-3 baptisms a year between 1643-1646. Two of these years (1647-1648) there were no baptisms at all. There was simply no-one left. Only one person was said to have been alive in Winden during the years 1632-1641.(15) Because of this, the parish there [Winden] was disbanded and remained united with Barbelroth until 1704. Although Barbelroth Parish included several villages at this time, for almost two decades, only four to six baptisms took place each year. Foreign names also occur more and more frequently then.

Duke Karl Ludwig of the Palatinate ruled part of this region from the end of the 30-Years War. Also Duke Friedrich of the Pfalz-Zweibrücken District of Bergzabern ruled from 1640-1661 and his successor was Duke Friedrich Ludwig who ruled 1661-1681. These rulers were faced with stretches of land that had once been blessed and densely populated, which were now in an awful state. Towns were deserted and formerly wealthy villages and markets were extremely run-down, almost desolate. The small part of the population that was still there, barely two percent of what it had been, were poverty-stricken and ragged because of the war and plundering.(16)

These rulers endeavored to induce new settlers to this region with many promises and incentives. They first tried to entice those who had left their homes to return. They then turned to settlers in other regions of Württemberg, Switzerland, Hessen, and France to settle here. Many people heard the call and came to this region. Among those in the region of Barbelroth and Winden, a majority were the French Walloons. These were Protestant refugees who fled northern France in the late-16th century and early 17th century. They first flooded the regions of Belgium and Holland, and then as territories opened and offers were extended, they emigrated on to England, Germany, Switzerland, and America.

The Petillion family was among those following this migration route. They fled France in the late-16th century and early 17th century. From there they went to Middelburg, Holland prior to 1642.
The father of Jacob or Jacque Petillon was named Andre Petillon. He was born about 1620 and died in Winden September 17, 1692. His first wife, Marie Mashue, he married in Middelburg in the Netherlands on March 10, 1648(17). He married a second wife, Sara Sy in Mannheim on January 24, 1677(18). Between his two wives he had six children:

Nicolas Petillon born about 1651
Jacque Petillon born about 1653.
Abraham Petillon born 8 Feb 1656 in Mannheim(19).
Marie Petillon born 22 Feb 1660 in Mannheim(20).
Elisabeth Petillon born about 1678. She md 25 Jan 1696 Charle De La Haye in Barbelroth(21).
Susanna Petillon born about 1680. She md 8 Dec 1700 Abraham De La Haye in Barbelroth(22).

Andre Petillon took his family from Middelburg to Mannheim, Germany about 1655. When further persecution and wars hit Mannheim from the French troops, the Petillon family decided to take up offers made by the aforesaid Dukes in the Palatinate region of Germany where they settled at Winden. After the French wars of the 1670's and 1680's were over, this area began to prosper again!
After three generations of this family had passed in Germany, their settlement was quite successful and the economic climate was good. Why then would two sons in this family leave Germany and go to faraway America?
The reasons they chose to leave Germany were similar to why they left eastern Pennsylvania for the frontier lands. The areas that had once offered cheap land were now more heavily populated. Prices had gone up and there were fewer opportunities than further west. Likewise in Germany in the late 17th century, this area had great opportunities for those willing to settle there and build it up again.

By the mid-18th century, the population in this region had greatly increased. Bigger families and few wars or plagues led to much competition for jobs. Taxes were heavy. Opportunities for another weaver in a town with four or five weavers was not good. To many it appeared impossible to raise above poverty and improve their lot in life. At this same time, promises of free land and wonderful conditions in the New World sounded very enticing. Like their ancestors three generations before, they had a chance to improve their lot in life and pass on an inheritance to their children.
Although perhaps more extreme, the reasons these people left Germany were not all that different than their descendants had for moving west.

FRENCH ORIGINS
Establishing the origins of the Petillon family in France was next to impossible as the records were destroyed when these families fled the region of Northern France. Yet clues in the records of Mannheim and Middleburg identified the region of Estaires, Sailly, Lavantie, and Fleurbaix, which was then called "pays de la leu". These towns are in the present-day departments of Nord and Pas-de-Calais, known as the regions of Flanders and Artois. This region had several protestant congregations established in 1566(23), which were later disbanded and prohibited.

In the town of Fleurbaix, the marriage records from 1567-1675 show several members of the Petillon family there(24). Within this region is a small village by the name Pètillon. It was apparently from this village that the family took its name. The town name was derived from the verb "petiller" which in Old French meant boiling with anger, furious, or very agitated.

Identifying the father of Andre Petillon for certain is not possible, however it is probable that he was a brother to others mentioned in Middleburg records of the early and mid-1600's: Henri Petillon (1642), Antoine Petillon (1647), Paul Petillon (1662)(25). This Henry Petillon was listed as a son of Jacque Petillon of Estaires. This Jacque Petillon would have been born about 1596 and have been the earliest probable direct ancestor that could be identified with any certainty.

Although originally fleeing France in the early 17th century for religious reasons, subsequent moves from Holland to Germany, from Germany to Pennsylvania, and from Pennsylvania westward, all came through opportunities for bettering their lot in life.

The story of the Bedillion-Petillon family's move through five countries and three languages in the 17th and 18th centuries is not atypical. In researching Palatinate emigrants to Pennsylvania, it appears frequently to be the case that the emigrants who left were from those regions of Germany that were re-settled after the French-German wars of the 17th century. Locating these families in Germany is only part of the story. By delving deeper into the European sources, one finds that they were originally from Switzerland, France, Southern Germany (Württemberg), or elsewhere. The story of their adventurous trip to America is really only another chapter in the ongoing story of the travels our ancestors undertook to improve their lots in life.

The following is taken from the book "De Lauter Families in America 1982", a Genealogy by: Pauline Grace De Lauter Fry.

When it became evident that a more authoritative source was needed in our search for European roots, I turned to Charles and Frankie Hall of Heritage International, Salt Lake City, Utah. The following is an excerpt of their finding:

"David De Lattre I; born "bei La Basse unweit Lisle" (Lille) in Flanders, carried into Germany, baptized in Oggersheim when he was a quarter year old, died frozen 14 Jan 1726 near Schifferstadt. Buried 16 Jan 1726 in Grobshifferstadt, aged about 70 years (Schifferstadt Rhineland-Pfalz, Germany)

Scriptures read at his burial: Gen.31:40, Ecc. 40:10, the text - Psalm 73:25-26

Children listed include David II christened 1700 and Jacob christened 1705. No marriage record is listed for Jacob. However, David De Lattre s/o David married Anna Elizabeth Geringer 22 Sept. 1718. Five children are listed: Johann Nicolaus, Christina, Johann Henrich, Maria Catharina and Phillipp Lorenz."

The following article was received from Marty Fisher. The article appeared in the Frederick Post on October 2, 1989 entitled "Origins of Huguenot Delauter families" by Calvin E. Schildknecht (Special to the News-Post).

Recently through a letter from Mrs. Pauline Delauter Fry of Elgin, Ill. to Dorothy S. Ranck we learned of records in the German book Hugenotten in der Pfalz by Helmut Kimmel Obersickte concerning David de Latre.

The Protestant church of the village of Iggelsheim near Schifferstadt recorded the death in 1726 of David deLatre age 70 who had fled from persecution at LaBasse near Lille in Flanders (northeast France). He had two children by second wife Margaretha and seven children by third wife Anna Maria Reipel. The latter was a daught of the Mayor of Friesenheim. David must have been brought to Germany by his parents since he was baptised in Oggersheim when he was 3 months old. The parish books of Iggelsheim from 1603 are in the State Archives at Speyer in the Pfalz.

A later David Delater who died in 1766 was naturalized in Frederick County in 1749 and with wife Anna Barbara had a son Johannes born August 6, 1749. Sponsors of the baptism recorded by the Reformed Church at Frederick were Johannes and wife Maria Brunner. Frederick Luthern records state that Anna Barbara was born Sept. 29, 1707 in Harsfeld, Durlach, near Pforzheim south of Heidelberg. She died in Frederick County on September 23, 1783. She was a daughter of Johannes Georg Kelli. Anna Barbara had first maried Jacob Hess and after his death she married David Delatter with whom she had two daughters and one son.

The Reformed Church in Middletown recorded that Jacob Delater and wife Elisabetha had the following children:

Anna Barbara born Dec. 28, 1753
David born April 15, 1754; baptism sponsors were David and Barbara Delater.
Heinrich baptized May 16, 1758.
Anna Maria born Nov. 11, 1766; sponsors were Johannes Brunner the elder and wife Anna Maria.

Jacob Delater was naturalized in 1762. The Varle map of 1809 shows a Delater living near present Wolfsville.

A Johannes Delader signed the original Ordinances of the Reformed Church in Frederick in 1756.

A young John Lorentz Delader was a catechumen at the Reformed Church in Frederick in 1754.

It seems possible that the three immigrant Delauter brothers by tradition were these David, Jacob and John.

Mrs. Fry stated that Jacob was baptized in 1705 was a son of David and wife Anna Maria (Reipel). After Jacob's death Elisabetha married Jacob Zimmerman.

Mrs. Fry believes that the original French spelling was DeLaterre.

The telephone directory of the Frederick area in 1988 contained 29 Delauters, 5 De Lauters, 7 Delauters, 5 De Lauders, 1 Delaughter and 2 Delawders.

NOTE: "I think that the "7 Delauters" is a typo and supposed to be 7 Delauders as they already list number for the spelling of Delauter."

(On December 22, 1999, I (Glen Delawder) received the following very informative email from Jean Delattre.)

Familly of David Delattre senior borned La Bassée (near Lille, Flanders)

From Jean Delattre, Seclin France (near Lille)

Hello.

After many searchs on the web and in the french archives, I have found a David Delattre, christened 12/25/1611 (25 décembre 1611) in Norwich (Norfolk, England) whose father was Guillaume Delattre (gillaume de Lattre). They were walloons (huguenots of the north of "France", France is with quotes because this land was not really the property of the King of France).

This is an interpretation of the history of the huguenot Delattre's familly:

Guillaume Delattre emigrate from the actual north french territory during the religious's war for England. He has a son, David. David come back in France (with the help of The Edict of Nantes, note that Henry IV was murdered in 1610). David may have brothers and sisters?

David may have three sons:

Martin borned 1655 (+/- one year)

David borned 1656 (+/- one year) -→ your ancestor

Thomas borned 1657(+/- one year) -→ my ancestor

Or David had brothers whose sons were Martin and Thomas.Years of birth of Martin, David and Thomas seems to be th real fact.

Guillaume Delattre

David Delattre(1611-after 1656) unknow Delattre

David Delattre(1656-1726) Martin Delattre(1655) Thomas Delattre (1657)

Glen Delawder Jean Delattre

These options must be verified.

Amicalement

Merry Christmas and Happy new year.

Jean

Welcome to Schifferstadt, Germany

This town in Germany has special significance to genealogy enthusiast Harvey Lineback, who had Schifferstadt as well as neighboring Klein Schifferstadt, Germany photographed for his personal genealogical project in 1997.

About Schifferstadt
This town is located in the state of Rheinland-Pfalz, Germany. Nearby towns include Mannheim, Ludwigshafen and Speyer. The town was historically split between Catholic and Protestant religions, with the Protestants living in a small area that was called Klein Schifferstadt. This village, on the western side of the town, has since been absorbed into the town of Schifferstadt and does not show up on modern day maps of the area.

The Martin Luther Church, Evangelical, 1688

Klein Schifferstadt apparently grew up as a refuge for Protestants. The congregation dates from 1501 with the current church building, the Martin Luther Church, constructed in 1688. There are excellent resources available about the town of Schifferstadt and the history of the Protestant and Catholic populations, most notably in a book that is available from the local town hall that was translated into English a number of years ago by a woman working for California State University, later edited by a genealogist named Thomas Herbert Bernatz, a descendant of Augustine Bernaz, who emigrated in 1725. It's rare to find a town where the complete history of the town has been translated into English. The address for the town hall and the civil records office in Schifferstadt is: Rathaus Schifferstadt, Standesamt Zimmer 125, Marktplatz 2, 67105 Schifferstadt, Germany. The address for the Evangelical Lutheran Church office is: Evangelisches Pfarramt, Langgasse 56, 67105 Schifferstadt, Germany. There is also a civil records office for the region in nearby Hassloch: Standesamt Hassloch, Rathaus, 67454 Hassloch, Germany.

About the Gallery
The goal of the European Quest Gallery is to help genealogists connect with one another. This is a free service provided to clients of European Focus, Inc.

These clients are genealogists who have had their ancestral town photographed. Clients receive full portfolios of at least 30 photographs of their ancestral town, plus descriptive information about the town and oftentimes historical information that helps the genealogist understand why their ancestors left that town or area. This gallery page shows just a portion of what that genealogist received. All photos in the European Quest Gallery are created by professional photographer, James A. Derheim, who has been capturing genealogists' ancestral towns on film since 1990. All photos ©European Focus Inc., Worldwide Rights Reserved.

Subject: RE: Herlong

Dear Herlan/Herlong Cousins: I attended the 300th Anniversary Celebration in Friedrichstal as I was making my 6th visit there (and other places in Germany) from 24 June to 15 July 1999. The only other Americans that I saw were my wife Nancy Burck and Catheryn Dippo (this is an American version of the Friedrichstal family name Thibaut) of Maryland who recently published the church records of Friedrichstal from 1698 to 1812 from Heritage Books, Inc. (email me if you want purchase details). It was a hot but wonderful week to spend with cousins and other Friedrichstalers. Our first night of the celebration was 8 July at the Sängerhalle (which they recently built in Friedrichstal (with no air conditioning). All the children came in with candles representing our ancestors and placed them in a Huguenot cross so that the cross glowed. Then they had a variety entertainment which included groups singing songs, a band, and reading the story of our ancestors leaving France for Gemany and acting out parts inbetween readings (which was all in German but I got the idea of what was going on) and each person attending the event lit a candle in front of them to commemorate their ancestors. There were drinks served before and during the event and a dinner afterward but I cousins with whom I was staying did not stay for that. On Friday, 9 July were various events throughout the day. The next night, 10 July, there was a Herlan family meeting and dinner. One of the oldest cousins announced they were paying for each meal so everyone was delighted. I descend from Johann Herlan who was born in 1753 in Friedrichstal and have been working on locating all of his descendants for several years. Many of those descendants were in attendance and I passed my Family Tree Maker printout of the descendants to their delight and many contributed much more information. It was a night of jokes, songs, announcements, etc. but not much genealogy other than my contribution. It was good to see so many Herlans together at one time. It was a fun evening at the Vogelpark (which is a bird park with a meeting hall and playground which is located next to the only stream that runs through Friedrichstal (the stream is the Heglach? I think it is called)

All events were held is the biggest tent I ever saw which was located in the church yard, along with several other booths and and tables and umbrellas, etc. Beer and other drinks and many food items were available for the entire week long event. Several souvenirs where sold. They had flags with a large F on them (About 35 DM) that were displayed on most houses and businesses. They had a gold and a silver commemorative coin for sale (I just bought the silver one (About 49 DM) and a watch that said Friedrichstal with a chip of stone from the church renovation embedded in the face (About 99 DM) and Coffee Mugs (About 5 DM) and a set of 4 Post Cards (About 1 DM each) and I brought home several signs and posters and about 100 photographs. At night they had bands for the younger groups in the tent. The church was renovated for the event. They painted the church and added all new gutters and downspouts and new entrance door sills and paving stones at all entrances outside and a new cornerstone with the date the church was built in 1830. I went up in the church tower for the first time and saw the clock mechanism and the bells. On Saturday (daytime) we just visited the tent area several times and they had events. On Sunday, 11 July, we attended church which was packed, even many Catholics attended and the priest participated in the service, There were chairs in the hallways and even in the narthex. There was a band and a big choir plus another choir that came in to sing. It was all very nice. Then all the dignitaries laid a wreath by the monuments to the soldiers from the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 and WW I and WW II outside of the church. Some of these dignitaries were from from Friedrichstal's sister cities in France and Hungary. Then it was time for the big parade, which I have on video with 63 or 73 (I forget) parade entries. It was similar to and American parade but many more historical floats and items such as old-time occupations, the a float with a model of the hunters castle known as Stutensee (which means Horse Lake) which is located nearby, a float with a model of the original Reformed church and another float with a replica of an original Friedrichstal house, etc. One thing that was unusual to me was the practice of the city workers dropping off large branches of trees all along the parade route and then residents taking them and tying them to the front of their houses to make the route look more like the forest. The parade was almost 2 hours and we watched it twice. We could see alot better the second time as many people left for the tent area. All had to pay 3 DM for the entrance fee for any and all events which was a onetime price for the entire week. You received a plastic Friedrichstal pin to wear for proof of payment. Several other events were going on also, the Heimat (Village)Museum was open free all week and the police were marking bicycles for identification, and a machine to demonstrate a 5 mile per hour crash was there to promote seat belt use, and a group weaving baskets, etc. They even had American-looking carnival trailers with darts and other games to win junky prizes and cotton candy, etc. With your Friedrichstal button you also had free transportation from neighboring village Blankenloch to Karlsruhe or Ettlingen or to the north edge of the Black Forest and we went to Ettlingen on 12 July. The Strassenbahn (street train) will probably be built to Friedrichstal by our next visit in a few years. Well those are some of my memories just off the top of my head. I wish you could have all been there. I any of you want to see any and all of these items, come to my house in Cincinnati. (the photos, the video, the 300th anniversary items, etc.) (My ancestor was Friedrike Herlan who married Johann Konrad Bürck, who was born in Ziegelhausen near Heidelberg, and they married in Friedrichstal in 1844. Their son Johannes came to Cincinnati in 1866 and others followed). Kenny Burck

Dear Melanie,

Life has been hectic here. Doctors appts, dental work and ten days in Roanoke, VA with Cier son & daughter-in-law. Jeff has had three transplants in the last two years. They operated on her at Shands Hosp. She was in surgery 7½ hrs. Had to do a complete Hysterectomy, some fiberods & part of the Vagina + plus skin graphs from her Tuttox. She bled a lot & they both sounded good. She is off of all the machines & they will let them come home tomorrow. She will have to go back in two weeks to have the Catheter out. Unfortunately, even though they left a 1 inch Margin of safety zone that looked clear, the biopsy showed that there were still cancer cells there. So in 4 months they will operate again but it won't be nearly as bad next time. Mr mom is going to stay with her until she goes back to work. Shands is a fabulous hospital but we were glad to get home & I know they will be too.

I did not mean to get so long-winded on her brother was on a business trip in Miss. (Burnville) and went to David's home & saw pics of Henry Conrad & wife hanging over the mantel. David was dead then but Wedonia mother & sister does & a son who was a banker lived there. *

We went out to the old cemetery & explored. Some Norberg graves. Also my Dad's oldest brother who was a ret. Minister, his wife and youngest son were buried close by.

An Old friend from California (school friend) was in Panama City visiting her sister where we got home. We got together several times - lots of fun reminiscing when there were a bunch of people from our home town - including some of Bob's cousins live over there. May invite to have a party & get us all together.

* I failed to say the family tree is framed & hanging in Gail upstairs.

I am enclosing a picture of the old Hickory House. The manager was delighted that I knew the Adjs Jacob & Mary Savannah & their children. Came on as well as the date. Was also pleased that it lived for more generations back.

The family tree said they were Dutch. But who knows they sailed from Holland (early) & were where the German State they lived in was Dutch and both under French rule & then German rule. They were definitely French. Jacob was also called Heinrich.

We are going to Jackson Co. FL (a 100 miles) to my Davis Family Reunion. This will be the 100th Reunion! I must stop and get some things ready to take over there. They always expect me to bring some news & I have it! Three more generations since I was there two years ago.

Love, Fannie

Jacob Hurlong was born ca. 1720 in France. He married ca 1743 Mary-Susannah Du Puis born ca 1725 in France (area where Calais is now.) Her father was Pierre Du Puis. Jacob and Mary-Susannah lived near Landau, Germany probably the one in Rhineland Pfalz. I read the early history on the French, Belgium & German border states. At one time they would be under French rule and then German rule. (changed back and forth but they were in what is present day Germany.) Four daughters were born to them in Germany. The last after 1751. Earliest documentation in America is Sally's Christ. @ orangeburgh SC in 1754. This means they came to this country between 1752 and 1754. I have been unable to find the ship they sailed on or where they took the oath of allegiance.

Their dau. Mary Catherine Hurlong was born in 1745 in Germany. She died on 16 Oct 1756 in Orangeburgh, SC. Jacob (b. 1754), Susannah (b 1754), Johannes (b 1759) and Nicholas (b. ca 1761) are the known children. According to census records there were four more male children and three more female children. The four unnamed sons, according to family tradition, were killed at the Battle of Cowpens, SC. I have a short history of this battle. Few Colonist were killed here but the British losses were heavy for such a small battle. Historians have long tried to establish the names of the men killed at Cowpens. Few names have been documented. Most are known by family tradition only.

I feel fairly certain that the info in paragraph one is correct. This Fall I intend to see what the Mormon Lib (Salt Lake city) has on France & Germany. If I can't some documentation, I will pay German and French Researchers to document this info.

You will find mary-Susannah (Du Puis) Herlong's brother in Sally's history. His wife died in child birth. Family tradition says he moved with child (n children) to Perrysburg, SC.

In "Colonial Soldiers and Patriots of S.C." by Leonardo Andrea, Jacob Herling (Herlong) served in Cherokee War under Col. John Chevillette whose men were mostly from Barkley Co SC.

Stubb Entries & Indents BK I #423 25 Nov 1784 to Mr. Jacob Herlong for six pounds seven shillings and seven pence half penny sterling, Provisions and Forage for State Troopers use in 1781. account audited. Principal £ 6.. 7.. 7½ Int. 0.. 8.. 11
This established Jacob Herlong as a Rev. War Patriot.
"Jury Lists SC 1778-1779" by D & C Hendrick (Hendrix) and Thom Lindsay

Petit Jury 1778-79 : Jacob Herlong, orange burgh.
Jury duty during Rev. War also qualifies a man as a Rev. War Patriot.

The name has many spellings - Herlong, Harlong, Harelong, Herlan, Herline, Hairlong, Hirelong etc.

Nicholas Herlong's name does not appear.
Only Herlong name is Danial. Son of Nicholas and my great great grand father. Danial was there in 1830 but moved his family to Lowndes (later Butler) Co. ala ca. 1831.

The site of Nicholas Herlong's grave is unknown. Through Miss Myrtle Herlong's (d. 1 Jan 1982 at 94-yrs) of Lusburg, Fla. & Deland, Fla. efforts a Rev. War memorial marker was placed in his memory at Andrew Chapel beside his son Lewis Herlong. Andrew Chapel is between St. Matthews & Orangeburg. We have a slide of the monument. Many Herlong Records are in the Genealogy Section of St. Matthews, SC museum in Calhoun Co. SC

I have all of Daniel S Hurlong's descendants (14 Children!). Most of them through my generation.

I have most of Lewis & Henry Conrads descendants. I need to read some census records to separate these two families. They both lived in Old Edgefield Co. and then Lewis moved back to St. Matthews - Orangeburg area. Lewis reared several children who were not his.

I have known for a long time that I should read more census records for David's & Jacob's descendants. Hopefully, you will share what you read with me. I have all 13 of David's Children's b'dates except ~~James David~~ Catherine M. & Elizabeth E. I have Spouses of all children except James David & Rachel Elizabeth. I suspect these last two died as babes. I have Bible Record of George W. Hurlong and Emily Loveday Thames. Spouses of four of his children & some descendants of these four.

I have enough info for a big fat Hurlong book and a big, big fat Purdue book. These two families intermarried so in Alabama that it will be hard to write them separately!

This gives you some idea of what I'm working on. My older family names on Hurlong side are Roper (Va & Al.), Watson (NC, SC, Al) Perry (NC, Al), Reddocks. I have a lot of info way back on all of these except on my 3x great grandmother, Sylvia (Perry) Watson. My father's families have been harder to work. They are Bevis (Va, SC, Ga. Fla) Conley (NC, Ga, Fla) Coulliette (Ga. Fla) & Harwell (Eng, Va. Ga & Fl). I have just had a breakthrough on my 3x great grandfather William Bevis & family in Newberry Co. SC.

5. I have back up files for all my family sheets. about a dozen field note books (composition), about eight new loose leaf note books of material. Six books of family sheets filled back & front, a fair sized list of books & periodicals, several old family Bibles, hymnals & prayer books, a collection of copies of old family pictures. no Herlongs. The backs of the pictures are filled with hand written history compiled by a Purdue cousin (Dr. L. Bracon deced) in 1940.

I forgot our Jones family Papers. Bob's sister wrote the book but we did a great deal of the research and have fabulous copies of back up papers and pictures. His families are Jones, London, Camp, Van Landingham, Edwards, Pool, Gardiner, Baker, Perry, Monk & Bullock.

You can see my thirtan years of genealogy haven't been wasted! I worked on it full time until Bob retired in 1975. I have a large room in Tallahassee where I am able to work undisturbed but we are in Talla. so little. Bob likes genealogy and helps me work all court houses, Libraries, Cemetarys and such on trips. He has so many other interest that he doesn't work on it at home unless I ask him. He is a fun person and we are enjoying retirement immensely.

I'm sorry to be so slow in getting this info to you. Things sort of fell apart here last week. Later this month I'm having a gastroscopy & biopsy on an ulcer in the stomach wall. Couldn't come at a worse time. Our Younger son (35) Larry, wife Priscilla and three grandsons, ages 6, 10 and 13 arrive 15 aug. They have been at S.A.C. in omaha, Nebr but are transfering back to Plattsburgh, N.y. where Larry will Command an Electronics Sqdn. Our six year old grandson is an adopted child - Full Korean. They adopted him when he was 8 months old. our older son, Jim (37), runs the Computer system for the Supreme court. His wife Lyn is an analyst with State Law Enforcement - works mostly with narcotics. They have no children but we keep hoping they will adopt a baby before Jim gets too old. I started out to say they will all be at the beach soon and there wont be much time for genealogy.

If there is anything specific you need let me know. You should contact Martha Lease. She and her husband have been to the miss courthouses since Bob + I went there. I checked my notebook for the date. The Cover "June + July 1973" and "May 1974". The pages 1-43 Cover this trip. We went to Choudrant, La. Monroe, La Winnsborough, miss. Claiborne, Copiah, Jefferson and Hinds (2 Courthouses).

If you can't get over to Miss., I would check to see if Martha Lease Xeroxed those settlement of Estates of David + Mary Hulong. There was a husband + wife team there in '73 and they were lovely to us. However in some Miss. Courthouses they will tell you that by law they are prohibited from helping you. As I remember we got a cool reception in Winnsboro and I had the feeling that the Clerk of the Court was a Hulong descendant. He "knew nothing" about any old Cemeteries. We visited one in town but missed some important ones in the area. Must close. Bonnie Jones

I didn't find Catharine M. & J. D. Phillips in this Cem. listing. If you do not have a copy of this I will send you one.

You were correct Catharine M. Herlong was not on the two surviving sheets of David & Mary (C.) Herlongs Bible Record but the earlier info is sufficient to prove her as their daughter.

If you don't have this Cemetery Survey I will send you a Copy.

This marriage puzzles me.

Herlong, mary to Thomas Frisby
6 July 1837

Is this mary Herlong the dau of elder bro. Jacob?
the widow of " " " ?
or a sister of Jacob, David, Daniel, Lewis & Henry C and daughter of Nicholas Herlong?

* There are Joneses buried in Herlong Cem. at Brandywine Community, miss.

The four Herlong brothers for whom we have names of children used the same names over & over and the names persisted through several generations all four bros (don't know bro. Jacob's ch's names) named a son John.
often using the same middle ~~name~~ initial but a different name all four named a son James.
two named a son George.
two named a son Nicholas.
two named a son William.

all four named daus Elizabeth
David had a dau Sarah ann
Daniel had a dau ① Elvirah Catherine Sarah d. at 3 yrs
" " " " ② Elizabeth ann Sarah d. at 2½ yrs
" " " " ③ Elizabeth ann Sarah 2nd child with this name
Three brothers named a dau Catherine

Doesn't prove a lot except that the families kept the old names alive. They were also used in later generations.

Miss Myrtle Herlong (the one who had the RWS memorial marker placed in Andrew Chapel Cem in memory of Nicholas Herlong) wrote me in March of 1973 that some years earlier her brother Albert Sidney Herlong Sr. made a business trip to Miss. Sidney Sr. was in the citrus business. He died in 1903* so it was some years earlier. He learned there was a Mr. Herlong who worked in bank. He called him and was invited home to Sunday dinner. Mr. H. was a descendant of David Herlong. He lived at home with his mother & maiden sister. Sidney found pictures of his grandparents Vastine Andrew Herlong & Mary (Keaner) Herlong on the mantle in the living room.

This is all very disjointed but in looking over my papers I'm copying whatever I think might interest you. David & Mary marriage certificate was sent to me by Martha Leese.

* That's an error Sidney Sr. died in 1963 !!

I seemed to have misplaced my Xerox copies of Jacob & Nicholas Herlong's RW. War land grants — one was a colonial grant I think. My copies are framed and hanging in our den in Talla. If I end up in the hospital for an extended stay (I'm not planning to!) and don't get the land grants to you. You can get them from S. Archives or Martha Leese could Xerox the ones I sent her.

Noland

I have a Lewis Family Chart consisting of five pages of small hand printed data taped together with Scotch tape. It contains some very early Noland's. The compilers name is very faint and the tape is across the name. If these should be your husband's Nolands I will get out my magnifying glass (it's in Talla.) and search some letters where I inquired as to the identity of the compiler. I feel sure it was one of the Butler Co. ala Crenshaws.

① 1816 Territorial Census of Jefferson Co, MS shows David Herlong and Jacob Herlong enumerated in Jefferson Co, Mississippi Territory. David Herlong previously verified with birthdate 1789, see [illegible] Leonard Varnado. Jacob Herlong shown in 1820 Census Jefferson Co MS as head of hh age 26-44. Since this places Jacob's birth after 1774, he is not likely to have been David's father.

② These two men appear to have arrived in Miss. Ter. after Nov 1810, when David Herlong "from Orangeburg District, South Carolina" was granted passport by Governor of Georgia. See Bryan, "Passports Issued by Governors of Georgia 1810-1820," p 74.

③ While David Herlong was not found in the 1810 Census in Orangeburg Dist. SC, Jacob Herlong was so found, age 16-25. The only other Herlong, etc. hh in Orangeburg Dist, SC was that of "N. Herlong," 1m -10, 2m 10-15, 1m +45, etc. We are unable to place a male born in 1789 in this hh, but this is not a fatal omission.

④ A review of 1800 and 1790 Census enumeration shows only one Herlong hh in Orangeburg, that of Nicholas "Hairlong":
- 1790 Cen, Orangeburg Dist SC, 2 Wh +16, 3 Wh -16, etc.
- 1800 Cen, Orangeburg Dist SC, 2m -10, 2m 10-15, 1m 26-44

} Each of these hh includes a male of the profile of David, above

It is worthy of note that a sounder search of both the 1790 + 1800 enumerations only returned one household of the Herlong, etc. variations in the State of South Carolina ... that of Nicholas.

∴ In light of this evidence, we conclude that David Herlong was the son of Nicholas Herlong.

Two observations about the evidence submitted with this paper:

① The research of Regette Herlong does not constitute personal knowledge of the gen 7-8 relationship. "Personal knowledge," by DAR standards of interpretation, may only be had by an eyewitness to the relationship in question.

② The destruction or inaccessibility of records is not a criterion for the verification of DAR papers.

Mr. Thomas R. Wolfe
Orangeburg, S.C.
Dear Mr. Wolfe:

Your letter of October 28 was received promptly and, I assure you, greatly appreciated. Also, it was most kind and gracious of you to give me so much of your time when I was in Orangeburg. Meeting and talking to Mrs. Richardson and to you has given me new hope that I may eventually gain facts about my ancestors — especially Nicholas Herlong, son of Jacob Herlong, first by that name in South Carolina — that I am very anxious to learn.

The two old legal papers are of great interest to me. Nicholas' son Daniel, (born 1794), married Sarah Riley (born 1801) in 1819. They lived in

Myrtle Herlong

Box 726 Leesburg, Florida

Old Orangeburg County until about 1834 when they moved to Lowndes County, Alabama, and both are buried there. He was a Methodist minister.

Two of Daniel's great grandsons from Alabama have come to Leesburg to live within the past ten years. Lee Herlong and my nephew, Rev. Fred Herlong, met while in the Army. Later Lee came here to manage the Lincoln-Mercury Co., one of the businesses owned by my brother here, A. Sydney Herlong, Sr.; and his four sons. Soon after, his brother, Gordon, came — two fine Christian gentlemen. When Lee died several years ago Gordon took over the management of that concern and still has that position. Naturally, Gordon was very interested in the two papers you sent. I have no idea who John Houselighter may have been, nor what his relation to the Rileys was, — Possibly Mrs.

Myrtle Herlong

Box 726 Leesburg, Florida

Hydrick can enlighten me. Thank you for giving me this opportunity for progress.

Henry C.) Herlong (Henry Conrad - born 1801) was my great grand father - also a Methodist minister. He and his brother Lewis went from Old Orangeburgh County to Old Edgefield County (near Saluda and Johnston). Lewis married two Edgefield girls and eventually returned to Old Orangeburgh County - that part which is now Calhoun County - out from St. Matthews. Henry C. remained in Old Edgefield County - near present towns of Saluda and Johnston, and was buried there.

My father and mother were both reared there, my father coming to Florida about 1887. I was born in Columbia County, Florida in 1888. After teaching for thirty-three years - the last twenty-seven in Jacksonville - I retired in 1949 and came to live in Leesburg where my brother and his four sons and their families are my nearest neighbors here on Lake Griffin. I try to get back to South Carolina where I have many relatives and friends every May and October. I am reasonably sure that what I am not able to accomplish will not be done and I do want my family to have as much knowledge as possible of their ancestry.

Eldred Nicholas Herlong who served under Captain Jacob Rumph lost his four brothers at the Battle of Cowpens. How fortunate that he was serving elsewhere with Capt. Rumph, possibly at that same time. As interested as I have been in his superior officer, how pleased I was to meet you, one of that officers descendants. I salute you!

Please pardon me for keeping these two old and valued papers for this length of time. I had photostatic copies made of them for my Riley, article shows results with your approval. Any other information which you may come upon will be very much appreciated. Again must sincerely thank you.

Cordially yours,

Miss Myrtel Herlong,
Box 726,
Leesburg, Florida.

Dear Miss Herlong :

I am enclosing a few old papers with the Herlong (Hulong or Hurlong) on it for such information as you see fit to gather. I will appreciate a return of this, since it is records that do not belong to me.

I believe that someone is in error about the statement you made that no Herlong's lived in this County or area. I am going to ask you to write Mrs. Maude Riley Hydrick, Green St., Orangeburg, S.C., who was the daughter of Onan B.Riley, and who was raised and lived in the general area where the Herlong's lived - and perhaps, she can give you persons of that name, and possibly she might know some of this history herself.

If I come upon any history referring to the Herlong's, I will be glad to let you know. I think it wise to investigate further through Lexington and Edgefield Counties for thisfamily connection.

With very best regards, I am

Very truly yours,

TRW/s.

Thomas R.Wolfe.

State of Mississippi } In Chancery Court
Claiborne County } October term 1886

To the Hon Lauch McLaurin Chancellor of 10th District of Mississippi

The petition of Calvin Phillips of said County respectfully showeth unto Your Honor that on the 27th day of June 1886 Mary Herlong a citizen and for many years a resident of said County, died intestate at her residence in said County at the advanced age of about 93 years, leaving a small personal property consisting of Cattle, hogs, household furniture & a buggy - all of said personal property being worth not exceeding three hundred Dollars as your petitioner believes. Petitioner shows that said defedent although she left many descendants grand children & great grandchildren, surviving her, yet left only one son living residing in said County, and he is not willing to act as administrator of said estate. Your petitioner shows, that he is a grand son of said Mary Herlong (being a son of her deceased daughter Catherine) and one of her heirs at law. Your petitioner believes that it is necessary for the preservation of said estate that an administration should be forthwith granted. He believes himself to be a suitable person for the administration of said estate and as much entitled to administer the same as any other person except the said George Herlong who is unwilling to act. Wherefore the premises Considered, your petitioner would pray that letters of administration be granted to your petitioner upon his taking the oath prescribed by law & entering into bond as the Court may direct and as in duty bound he will ever pray &c

the old records of Adams County, Mississippi.

They all pertain to the disposition of the estate of George Varnadoe(57). George died in late 1841 or early 1842, and left no children or wife, nor did he write a will. Mississippi law provided that, after paying debts, the estate was to be divided equally among his full (but not half) brothers and sisters.

The first document is in settlement of a debt that George had apparently owed. It provides us with the personal signatures of Nathaniel Varnedoe(58), Leonard Varnado(51) and Moses Varnado(56).

In the next document, the court appoints 5 men to supervise the division of the estate.

Next is an affidavit by this commission that they completed the division and appended to it a detailed audit of the estate, consisting of 50 slaves, and exactly how the distribution was made. There were 9 shares, which establishes the proof relationship of these brothers and sisters. Listed are:

Nathaniel Varnadoe(58)
Isham Varnadoe(5(10))
Moses Varnadoe(56)
Samuel Varnadoe(59)
Heir of Mary Varnado Herlong(54)
Heirs of Elizabeth Varnado Reeves(52)
Leonard Varnadoe(51)
Sally (Sarah) Varnado Amaker(55) and [illegible]
Heirs of Arcadia Varnado Dougharty(53).

Subject: MCGREW

MN> Hi Warren, I saw your msg to Susan Enrico regarding McGrew. Was MN> wondering if you have any info on William McGrew who married Caroline
MN> Caller. William and Caroline ended up in Claiborne Co., MS. In 1850, MN> William was dead and Caroline was 61 years old, born in Alabama. Their MN> sons, Flook and Clark married into my Herlong family. Any help would be MN> appreciated. Regards, Melanie Nolan in Humble, Texas

Melanie, I was slouching in my chair reading messages, and when I came to this one, I sat up straight. Here's one in my area sure enough. Are you new on the board, or have I just missed you somehow? Betcha money these McGREWs lived about 2 miles from my 4th GGF Lewis CRANE. They lived on a promontory, a nose-shaped bend in the Tombigbee River, a few miles from Ft. St. Stephens in Washington County, MS Territory--now Alabama. These McGREWs wrote to the seat of gov't at Natchez in about 1812 that the Creek Indians were on the warpath; I think they even sent their sons riding as couriers to carry that word. They had come -very early-, 1780's maybe, to the Tombigbee as Loyalist refugees, and McGREW's Landing was a known Loyalist outpost. For that reason, I have searched long and hard to find how my Patriot ancestor came to live practically next door. Something doesn't add up. I have two clues, one for you and one for me. Some McGREWS were part of the Quaker settlement just north of Augusta, GA called the Wrightsborough Settlement which sort of went to pieces when the Indians tried to tear them apart and the British were busy with the Rev. War and could not/did not defend the non-fighting Quakers who tried to live there. The McGREWs of the Tombigbee -may- have stemmed from those Quakers, and may not have been so much Loyalists as pacifists in the Quaker sense. Those Quakers who would not take up arms against Britain were tarred with the same brush as real Tories, so I don't know how these McGREWs may have fit in with that. I hope you can search that, or you may already have done so.
More [Y,n,=]? Y

Joe Besserman
Ohio - McGrew

Anyway, Mrs. Dunbar ROWLAND, in her book about the MS war of 1812 and the Indian wars says that everybody called the McGREWs the finest example of pioneer, frontier citizens that anyone could find. I do not know whether they -fought- agains

e Creeks who were rampaging about, killing animals and lone farmers in the fields, etc., but I think they did. And I know they did have slaves, another no-no for Quakers. I think that name was Flood McGREW rather than Flook, unless someone cooked up a nickname. Flood had the most slaves in 1810. Captain CALLER commanded the units in 1813 that my CRANEs fought in.
More [Y,n,=]? {

Use 'Y' for YES, 'N' for NO, and '=' for non-stop. More [Y,n,=]? Y

He was well known at Natchez, hence the later residence of his son or whatever in Claiborne County. More later.
Best Regards, Elsie

Melanie,

Sorry I'm so late in sending this. I enjoyed meeting with you - we will have to do it again.

I need to write cousin in LA for death dates of Hardy and Ellen but I haven't yet. She may know where in Richland Par they are buried, too. There is an old Cem. down an Oilfield road near Dienn (which I couldn't drive down because of huge potholes) that I believe they are buried

Subject: Re: Picture

You are welcome. The children referred to are Eliza, Martha, and William. They are all orphans of John Flood McGrew and Frances Rebecca Lucinda Herlong. I would guess they were written to Adeline, but I am not sure which sister had them at that time. At one point Eliza was in Louisiana during her early years with one of her aunts, and I assume that is where the letter was sent.
Flood had been murdered in 1855 when Eliza was less than a year old, and her mother Frances died within a few months of that, leaving the children to the care of Frances Herlong sisters, especially her aunt Adeline who married Charlie Tucker. (I have a Civil War letter written by George Morris, Charlie's nephew just before Shiloh, which was also in the box owned by Eliza that I now have.)

The McGrew estate(Caroline McGrew, mother- in -law of both Caroline and Sarah) is being fought over in one of the letters . David Herlong at that time had custody of Frances' and Flood's orphans, so the grandparents are very much involved in their upbringing and are interested in the settlement. The argument was over who owned a couple of slaves, but the Civil War answered that question before they could decide. Martha and William died before reaching maturity, leaving only Eliza, my great grandmother.
The name Flood I. has been a perpetuated error based on a census record that has Flood I or J (hard to read, probably for Flood John since his father was John McGrew, too). And he did go by the name of Flood. However, in his estate papers, his marriage license to Frances, and orphan court records, his legal name is John Flood McGrew.
I will scan the pictures for you and send them tomorrow.

John McGrew Jr claimed land of Alexander McGrew, rejected in Land Claims of the Mississippi Territory, American State Papers.

John McGrew was in TX when he died. The Orphans Court Records state that he died in TX, 14 August 1842.
One son, William McGrew ran to TX with his cousin, another William McGrew to escape punishment for killing two boys. Both were later captured. Believe William, son of John Jr, was not sent to prison and moved to MS, then TX. John might have been trying to see his son, as well as visit cousins who had moved to TX. 1850 census of Egbert Oliver & Pauline's household has the 2 McGrew children born in MS. Later on, census records said Frances McGrew was born in TX.

There was a Pauline (nee unknown) who apparently married first a McGrew, second Egbert Oliver, third (unk) Hall. She lived in Grimes Co, TX 1850, and in Montgomery Co, TX where 3 sons died of gunshots. Children: Frances McGrew (married a Ward), Wm McGrew, Robert Oliver, and John P. Oliver, and James Hall.

ROOTSWEB ROOTSWEB ROOTSWEB ROOTSWEB ROOTSWEB ROOTSWEB ROOTSWEB

Three (perhaps four) of Pauline (unk) McGrew Oliver Hall's children were living with Benjamin McKinney in Hardin County, TX, census of 1860: Frances McGrew, Robert Oliver, and John Oliver. There is a Clark Hill, or Hall, also in the household. Ten years later there is a Frances McGrew living next door to N. Ann and Benjamin McKinney . Frances has in her household, a William McGrew and Nolia McGrew.

Llewellyn Price (1)
B: Apr. 8, 1765
D: Feb. 13, 1842 - St. Joseph, LA.

married: Oct. 13, 1785

Margaret Glass Price
B: June 10, 1766 New Jersey
D: July 5, 1847
(Price/Snodgrass Cemetery)
Family cemetery located Sec. 60
T 11 R 1E - Claiborne Co. Mississippi, NE of Alcorn College off of the old road to the college - near Jefferson County line.

Margaret Glass Price & Llewellyn Price emigrated in the fall of 1788 from Virginia - landing at Brunsburg which was then in Spanish territory. Supposedly, Price was related to Peter B. Bruin & Ralph Humphreys - early settlers of the area, although this is "hearsay" & can not be documented .... yet!

At the time of her death Mrs. M. Price had 92 descendants.

Numerous deeds, etc. can be found in the Claiborne Co. Courthouse concerning Llewelyn and his children. The counties of Claiborne & Jefferson were once part of Pickering County.

Llewellyn and Margaret deeded the land for Bethel Presbyterian Church located near Oakland (now Alcorn) College. This transaction can be found in County Records.

First & earliest mention of Llewellyn is in the Hampshire Co. VA.... Census of 1784.

He was in the Natchez District by 1789, receiving 269 arpents of land ....

Mrs. Lucille Cunningham of W'boro is compiling a cemetery index for Franklin Parish. She said she's copied numerous Herlong listings. I assume that these are yours folks. (over)

She's doing me early years of Catahoula Parish census records. I'm going to look them for other "Lyons", etc.

Supposedly Catahoula has some good records & I'm hoping to go and look before long.

Notes from PROMISED LAND, CLAIBORNE CO HISTORY by Headley:

Daniel Lyon and Fanny Price the 28th of Aug 1806, by Dan Burnet, J.P.

Bondsman was John Patterson. [Found among the unrecorded records]

Owned land in the District West of Pearl at an early date: (Land Maps of the District West of the Pearl claiborne Co. Before 1816)

S. Lyon

1816 Inhabitants:

Peter Lyon

Early Marriages:

Lyon, Elizabeth-- John Burns Jan 25, 1827.. Book B Page 292

Lyon, Sophia-- Robert H. Criswell April 9, 1822 .. Book B Page 56

These are from the book but it is so poorly indexed that I found these just by looking through.

In the Price material where I first found Frances [Fanny] Price there was also an EMILY DART LYONS listed. Now, one of Frances's sisters married a Christopher Dart. (Looks like Emily might have married Lyons but that I look closer-) so many of the Price names are Lyon. Harlong names, too.

All this is just for your interest and maybe give you another lead.

Martha, here are the names of Llewllyn's children. I don't think they are in the order they were born, some of the third generation married and had children so we are still going strong! Thanks for the tomatoes they are so good.

Herlong was a native of Orangeburg, though his home for many years was in Edgefield near the Little Saluda River. He was a good farmer as well as a good preacher and good man. He was a Methodist preacher, but, I believe, never an itinerant. He was the founder of Emory Chapel. I learned something from him once about the mixture of soils and earths, which is worth remembering. Just below the public road and on the east or right bank of Little Saluda, he had a small piece of bottom land so crawfishy that it was worthless and unproductive. In course of time red clay from a hillside in the road washed down upon it in considerable quantities, and the quality of the soil became entirely changed and produced heavy crops of corn. He then made further experiments and found the red clay upon such places to be most excellent manure. Mr. Herlong was the father of Rev. Vastine Herlong, whom I used to see frequently and to know well. Spann's was named in honor of Rev. Henry Spann. Revs. Michael Rauch, Paul Derrick, Emanuel Caughman, and A. M. Lindler have all, at different times, preached the Word to the Lutheran churches in this part of Edgefield. Their names will probably again appear in a sketch of the Lutheran Church.

Revs. Mark Abney, George Bell, A. P. Norris, and Abner Asbil were all acceptable ministers amongst the Baptists here. Mark Abney and George Bell, this writer, many years ago, knew well. Mr. Bell was a young man grown at Mount Enon School in 1835, when the writer was a little boy. Being nearsighted or having some defect in his eyes, he wore glasses, which we little fellows thought very singular. He became a very excellent business man, as well as acceptable preacher and good citizen.

At the time of the ministrations of the Revs. Herlong and Spann in this part of Edgefield, the people called Methodists were not very numerous; but they were, and are, so active and aggressive, and withal, so sympathetic, that they have increased greatly in numbers.

EDUCATION.

I have already written something on the subject of education, but it is never out of order to give additional information, as the schoolmaster certainly occupies one of the most useful love and good fellowship, it galls and hurts, no matter how lightly and loosely and easily it may hang upon the limbs. It is a fetter imposed by force, and from that very fact becomes hateful, because the wearer knows that whenever the will of the master requires, it may be drawn so tight as to crush and destroy all freedom of motion. But I cannot doubt that a Divine Providence is in all human affairs, and that, in the War of Secession, God permitted the South to be beaten because slavery existed there, and that He wanted to destroy.

Soon after the war desperate white men, some of whom, it is said, had belonged to the Federal army, got in the Saluda country, and, there and elsewhere, committed robberies and other desperate deeds, that would do honor to the brigands of Spain, or Italy, or the James Brothers, or to the celebrated John A. Murrell. Major Hodge and a man named Thomas were leaders of these desperadoes. Thomas I saw once at a party, a social gathering in Edgefield County, in 1865, and again in my own bookstore in Newberry in the year 1866. He had bargained with a tobacconist from North Carolina, for the purchase of a wagon load of tobacco, with the wagon and team, to be delivered at a certain specified time and place; and they came into the store together to draw up the contract or agreement in writing. Soon after the tobacconist heard some rumors in regard to the reputation of Thomas and he did not appear and deliver the tobacco, &c., at the time and place agreed—probably from fear of being robbed and murdered. It was rumored afterwards that Thomas was hanged for some crime, and that Hodge was captured and hanged by the Federal garrison at Augusta. This period of lawlessness lasted, perhaps longer than it would have done if the government of the State had not passed entirely out of the hands of the native white men, citizens, as one of the results of the war. David Graham, a full-blooded negro, who lived near Red Bank, was elected to the Legislature several times during the period from 1868. And nearly all the representatives and county officers were negroes.

MINISTERS OF THE GOSPEL.

Florence Engelhardt Questioned date of Lewis Herlong's 2nd marriage. I'm still hunting for my source

#5 I question whether they (Lewis) named two sons John. My Daniel and Sarah Herlong named two sons George. Elisha George was still living when they named George Nicholas H. Herlong. The second child named George lived 5 weeks.

Mrs. Mamie Wood

Monroe, LA 71202

Dear Mamie:

It was very nice to talk with you earlier this month. I appreciated very much the material on the Herlongs which you sent me. If everyone was as prompt as you were, I would be much further along in my genealogy efforts.

You and I had about the same information on Jacob and Nicholas Herlong. I had none of the information on David and his descendants.

With what you have sent me, I believe I have found the line of Dennis and E. K. Herlong III. As you know, this was what prompted my search of this side of the family. Their line is:

1. David Herlong
2. John Houston Herlong
3. Peter Danial Herlong
4. John H. Herlong

Your information and also that that I had received from Jeannie Jones, indicated that John H. Herlong died September 6, 1896. This however, does not agree with information I was able to get from the census records. The 1870 records show John H. Herlong, son of Peter David, to be 3 months old. The 1880 records show John 10 years old. I could find nothing anywhere about John H. Herlong. The 1900 records I could find him nowhere in the soundex. I went through the complete 1900 Franklin Parish records and could find nothing. I also checked the 1900 soundex for Mississippi and Texas. Nothing showed up there. I could find nothing in the 1910 soundex, but when I went through Franklin Parish, I did find John H. Herlong, age 40 which ties into the 1870 and 1880 records, indicating that John H. apparently did not die in 1896. This census indicated he had been married 21 years and his wife's name started with an 'R'. It looked like Ryan, but I just could not read it. He had two children, Lilly L., age 20, Lucious K., age 16. Lucious K. is apparently the Grandfather of Dennis and L. K. III,

5. Lucious K. Herlong
6. Lucious K. Herlong Jr.

    1. L. K. III
    2. Dennis
    3. M. C., a daughter

I have not had a chance to talk to either Dennis or L. K. III. After I visit with them, I will let you know how this will work out.

Since I talked with you, I have talked with Melanie Nolan and told her I had heard from you and about all the information you had sent me. We are planning to get together here in Houston at the Clayton Library and see how our information compares.

I am enclosing family charts beginning with Danial S. Herlong through me and my family. I had not realized that so many of Danial's sons were in the Civil War, but it appears that at least four of them were killed. I guess you might draw a conclusion after what happened in the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, that the Herlongs needed to be in the action.

I am also enclosing the article about the house that was built by Henry Conrad Herlong. I have seen the place, but did not have an opportunity to go in. It is as beautiful as it appears in the pictures.

Again, let me thank you for the information you sent me, and with every best wish, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Tom

P.S.: Also enclosed is more information about when Jacob Herlong (Harlan) came to this country.

Dear Melanie:

Thank you very much for your note and the Herlong material which you sent me.

I have just finished a letter to Mamie Wood which I am enclosing a copy for you.

I think it would be a fine idea for us to get together at the Clayton Library some time. Just let me know when you think it will be convenient and we'll try to get together.

Sincerely yours,

Tom

P.S.: Along with a copy of the letter to Mamie, I am sending you a copy of the material I sent to her.

Facts concerning the family as related by Miss Leila Hammonds (granddaughter of Olivia Eugenia Herlong Gilliam) of Fort Deposit, Alabama, as told to her by her grandfather.

The following items are quoted from a letter which she wrote here (Leesburg, Florida) to her cousin, Lee Herlong (descendant of Elisha George Herlong):

"When they came from Carolina (Florrie says they came from South Carolina. I always thought they came from North Carolina) Uncle Elisha, your great grandfather, was nine years old.

1831 to Ala.

Uncle Hillery Shine married Frances Drucilla (Herlong). Then married E. A. Sarah. (E. A. Sarah I died in infancy. Her sister by the same name ((II)) lived.)

Mary Carolyn married a Nix.

William Franklin died at Lookout Mt. Uncle Frank Black went in his wagon and got his body, brought it back to Bethel. He was Frank H's grandfather and Cousin Elvira Sheppard's.

Martin was in Army also - Dr. couldn't find anything the matter with him. He sat down by a tree and died. Grandpa always said he grieved himself to death.about being in Army and away from home.

Elihu Fletcher was Cousin Fletcher Brown's father. (?)

John H was Cousin Mat's father.

Daniel E. was Bascom Rye's grandfather, I guess.

I may be able to get something about Uncle Capers family if I can get Cousin Leila McCaskey' address from Louise Brown Waller. Cousin Leila was Uncle Fletcher's daughter. She had two sons in First World War. One of her sons was in the same camp with two Herlong boys. Of course, he got acquainted and they were Uncle C.'s grandsons. He went across with them. One got killed. His name was Ralph. I understood they knew quite a lot of the long lost kin folks from them. It was a good many years ago. She spent a week with us. I don't know whether I can get up with any of them or not, but I will try if you want me to. Think I will try. I want to know if Cousin Leila is dead and about her three children.

Cousin Drue had some letters that Uncle Capers wrote to Uncle Lish that she had kept. I saw them years ago. I just wonder if Cousin Evie still has them.

I was thinking Uncle Hillery Shine married Sarah first but he didn't. He married Frances Drucilla. They had a girl named Sarah A. E. The daughter and her mother are buried at Bethel. Then he married her sister Sarah. She is buried at Oaky Street.

Daniel Herlong was a local preacher. I have heard he preached the first sermon that was preached at Bethel Church, (out from Fort Deposit)." End.

The Statistical Records on preceding pages were copies from the old family Bible of Danial Herlong. The bible was borrowed from the relative who had it at that time. The Records copied by the mother of Miss Leila Hammonds. The mother was Danial's granddaughter, daughter of Olivia Eugenia Herlong Gillian. Soon after the Bible was returned, it was destroyed when the house burned. Leila still has the copy made by her mother.

In 1952, I made a trip to Alabama. I went first to Tuscaloosa to see a first cousin, Estelle (Mrs. Giles Ellis of 2412 Twelfth Street) where I got photostatic copies of the Records in my grandfather's family Bible. Vastine Andrew Herlong was the oldest son of Henry Conrad Herlong, who was a brother of Danial Herlong.

On my way home I came by Fort Deposit and got two certified copies of the Danial Herlong Bible Records. I have one. The other one has gone to give a record of Danial Herlong, who originally came from Old Orangeburg County in South Carolina. He moved to Alabama about 1831. Efforts are being made in South Carolina to assemble all information possible about early citizens of that state. Danial is buried at Bethel Church. I have a record of those of the family buried there.

I am told copies of this book can be obtained from Neeley's Book store in Montgomery, Ala.

History of Orangeburgh County - 1704 - 1782 - by Dr. Salley - Doubt if copy can be purchased now.

The earliest record I have been able to find to date about any Herlong in this country is in Dr. Salley's book. First entry is about 1756. Jacob and Susannah Herlong lived in Orangeburgh County lost an eleven year old daughter, two sons born: Jacob and Johannes. I have photostatic copies of government payments for supplies furnished to the Army. He had also served in fighting against the Indians. Tradition in our family as passed down by older members now deceased: Two Herlong brothers came over here from Holland (they may have moved there from Germany), one stopping in Maryland (but to date I have been able to get no trace of them); the other coming to South Carolina. Jacob had five sons, four of whom were killed at the Battle of Cowpens, near Spartanburg, S. C. To date I have not been able to verify this officially. They were evidently privates, and those records seem to have been lost.

The remaining son, Nicholas, was in Capt. Jacob Rumph's company in a different part of the state, and survived. When Sherman came through South Carolina, he burned the Orangeburgh and Lexington Court Houses where I would have found most, really all, about the early Herlongs. Nicholas had five sons. As time passed, Danial went to Alabama, David to Mississippi (my brother here many years ago, met several of them), Capers to New Orleans and was never heard from again. Lewis went to Old Edgefield County, but eventually went back to that part of Old Orangeburgh County which is near St. Matthews, now County Seat of Calhoun County. My Great Grandfather went to Old Edgefield County (what is now Saluda County) and lived several miles out of Saluda. He lived for some years at Johnston where he built a beautiful brick home (brick made by slaves of which he seems to have had many) but Great Grandmother loved the country home. They are buried at the country home. Henry Conrad was also a local preacher as Danial was. His youngest son, Eldred Nicholas, was named for his grandfather. A daughter of his owns and operates the Saluda Hotel. Mrs. Marie Herlong Grant and I stay with her when I am in Saluda.

Uncle Lewis is buried at Andrew Chapel out from St. Matthews. I am leaving Thursday (Oct. 9, 1958) for St. Matthews, where Mrs. Cain, genealogist and friend, and a post officer in National D.A.R. has been instrumental in securing from the government in Washington a white marble stone which is to be placed at Andrew Chapel, honoring the memory of my Great Great Grandfather, Nicholas Herlong, for his service in the Revolutionary War. I plan to be there when it comes and is placed there.

Melanie,

Have finally realized that I may as well go ahead and send this information to you by snail mail. Am sending you everything I have in the computer to date. Hope to add to it in the next few weeks. It is agreed that credits will be given to the major contributors if we ever get around to publishing something. So far their names are: Judy Calkins, Lula Stewart, Loretta Herlong, Lucie Herlong, Sarah Stone...Heaven Help us if we leave anyone out. Will have to work on my list of contributors but those are the major ones so far.

Hope you and yours have a good holiday.

'Til Later

Dear Billy,

We returned from a month at our Mexico Beach cottage and found your interesting letter and chart waiting.

I am out of generation charts so I will give you a run down on our families and family sheets with my Harlong-Varnado information.

I am fascinated with your chart. my father's great grand parents were married in Laurens Dist, SC (son Longley Sears + Jane (Jenine) Palmer). They moved to Hard Co. Ga in 1840's and to Jackson County, Fla in 1860. Where they all remained until WW II. Dad's mother was Susan Shine Coulliette. Her parents were ~~J.T.~~ John T. Coulliette + Martha Jane Conley. They were in Jackson Co. Fla by 1830. In 1930 (I was seven yrs old) mother + Dad had an elderly neighbor in Gadsden Co. Fl. by the name of Emmett Smith. He had a brother Bliss (Buis) Smith.

my good friend Vera Butler of Chipley, Fla is descended from George Butler of S.C. & have also done some work on Capt Wm Butler for whom Butler Co. Ala was named. my great grand mother was Martha Ann (Harwell) Sears. Her name was often written as Hartwell.

my husband's great grand parents, Charles Baker Jones + Susan (Camp) Jones moved to Lafayette Co. Miss from Warren Co Ga in 1843. His Grandfather, Columbus Franklin Jones mar. Frances Gardner. A Mr & Mrs. Busby of Hamilton, Tx helped us with our early Gardner & Smith families. However, our Smiths did not have a Jesse, Emmett or Jordan Smith. Your people were in Hancock Co, Miss. Bob & I both had relatives in Hancock Co, Ga. And then there is my Varnado-Herlong connection.

We lived in San Antonio area (Randolph AFB) for thirteen years. Moved back "home" when Bob was retired for disability. We have both spent many happy hours in Clayton Lib in Houston. Our ships have passed so close never to have touched.

Mrs. Mary B. Smith, 604 W. Church St, Greenwood, Miss wrote me that Miss Lucy Varnado, Osyka, Miss. has published a "History of Osyka." She said the Varnados settled in Pike Co. Miss 1811-17. I have a letter in the mail to Miss Varnado.

I found my gr gr grandparents first born child, C.A.C. Herlong buried in his family Cemetery near Chandrant, La. Other Herlongs in Monroe, La. told me their people had come from SC to Miss. I found them in Copiah, Claiborne & Jefferson Counties but did not know about Pike county. I need to read Census records for Miss., "The Hist of Pike" and Pike County records. In fact I think I need to make a trip over there. Any info you can give me with early Varnado or Herlong info will certainly be appreciated.

Bobs families are: Jones (Va, Ga, miss, ala); Camps (Ill., Ga, miss); Poobs (N.C., Ga, ala, miss); Monks (N.C., Ga, ala, miss)&. Bob & I helped his sister, Nell (Jones) Carter with research for her book, "Camp, Jones & Related Families. This book may be at Clayton. Bobs mothers family were Van Landingham & Edwards.

My families are: Herlong (SC, Ala, Fla, Miss); Roper (Va, Ga, ala); Perdue (md, Ga, ala); Watson (Va, NC, SC, Ga, ala); Riley (SC & ala). Two Perdue brothers married two Watson sisters. Their grandchildren were my grandparents. It's a wonder we all aren't slithering idiots!! Berry (SC, Ga & ala); Riddocks (N.C, Ga, ala); and Anderson (Ga & ala).

There aren't too many Jackson Co. books in our State archives. I have a fair collection of info on Jackson Co. I will be going back over there when the weather is cooler. I will try to check for any info you need over there. Bobs folks were in Greenwood, Malone and Bascom.

Thank you for writing will be looking forward to hearing from you

Sincerely,
Jeannine Jones
